The Bloodiest Barrage Of Saigon by Rockets

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI)—A handful of Viet Cong firing from suburban rice paddies rocketed rush hour crowds today in their bloodiest barrage of Saigon, sending thousands of civilians into screaming panic and killing or wounding a record 135 Vietnamese.

For 10 minutes 26 six-foot 122mm rockets rained on downtown Saigon at daybreak in the 11th consecutive day of terror shelling aimed at breaking the capital's will to fight. The shelling has intensified to the extent that bomb shelter buildings have begun business in the capital. Today's barrage killed 19 civilians and wounded 116 others. The barrages have killed more in a single day but never claimed so high a toll of both dead and wounded.

The rockets slammed into a square mile area, cutting down men, women and children near the presidential palace, the U.S. Embassy, three American military billet hotels and government buildings. They hit a doctor's crowded office, houses, an old woman selling bread and a motorbike rider plus other targets unseen from the rice paddies.

U.S. spokesmen said the Viet Cong fired the rockets from six miles east and east-northwest. Allied artillery fired back but a later check found no guerrilla bodies.

The South Vietnam government announced shortly later that more Vietnamese civilians than allied troops were killed in Saigon fighting in May.

The cost of urban warfare last month in Saigon included 4443 civilians killed and 3,500 wounded. Another 161,000 were left homeless by the destruction of 10,500 houses.

From May 1 through June 9 in Saigon area fighting, 261 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 1,032 wounded. American and other allied forces suffered 103 men killed and 608 wounded.

One rocket burst into the waiting room of Dr. Dan Van Chieu. "I saw several pregnant women and children running from the building," said Bill Mykelbost of Tulare, Calif., a U.S. adviser. He heard the moans of victims buried in the ruins of the doctor's office.

Explosions ripped into walls of the Rex and Splendid, two U.S. military officers' billets. Maj. Elvin Krelick of Hopkinsville, Ky., said he "just rolled off the bed when they started coming in. It was a rude awakening."

The shelling came shortly before Gen. William C. Westmoreland, ending four years' command of U.S. forces in Vietnam, left by plane for his new duties as Army chief of staff. "Good luck!" called Westmoreland to his successor, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

Westmoreland had judged the shelling a publicity stunt, however bloody. Captured Communists said the harassment of Saigon was designed to add punch to the bargaining power of North Vietnam delegates meeting American diplomats in preliminary peace talks in Paris.

Today's shelling struck near the U.S. Embassy and other American buildings. One blast dug a six-foot hole in the grass five feet behind a white statue of the Virgin Mary in John F. Kennedy Square, alongside the city's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

In other developments: —U.S. helicopter gunships and Navy patrol craft killed 44 guerrillas Monday in three Mekong Delta fights.

—U.S. B52 Stratofortresses pounded North Vietnamese bases in South Vietnam's Central Highlands today.

New Major Crisis Threatens France

By STEPHENS BROENING

PARIS (AP) — A Communist union militant was killed today in a clash with riot police in a provincial city as student and striker turmoil threatened to plunge France into a new major crisis.

In Paris, Latin Quarter university students rioted and built barricades and appealed to the trade unions and people of Paris to join them in a mass demonstration tonight against President Charles de Gaulle's government.

Several thousand Citroen auto plant workers streamed toward the Labor Ministry shouting for "freedom to work" after having been turned back from their plant by strike pickets.

The prefect (governor) of the Sochaux region, Bernard Vaugon, told a news conference that the union member, identified only as Beylot, 24, was fatally wounded by a bullet in his chest. The prefect did not say who fired the shot. The bullet was being examined to attempt to determine its origin.

Sharp fighting between riot police and strikers broke out at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux after workers had voted narrowly, 2,664-2,615, Monday for a return to work.

The worst fighting occurred when strikers overwhelmed a riot police car, took guns from the car and set it afire. Several shots rang out.

Authorities said that, besides the dead man, 11 strikers and two riot police were injured.

The metal workers branch of the Communist-run General Confederation of Labor, France's strongest union — is used a statement charging Beylot was a "victim of aggression of the police placed in the services of the bosses by the government, against the metal workers fighting for their demands." The Peugeot plant strikers are among several hundred thousand holdouts demanding higher wages and other benefits.

The death was the fourth attributed directly or indirectly to the student and strike crisis which began a month ago.

The first was a Lyon police commissioner, Rene Lacroix, who was crushed by a stone-loaded truck pushed by student demonstrators.

A real estate worker, Philippe Matheron, 26, was found stabbed to death May 26 after a Paris Latin Quarter riot. Gilles Tautin, 17-year-old high school student drowned Monday in the Seine River at Meulan, near Paris. Tautin was with a group of students who were attempting to flee on-coming gendarmes.

The student rioting early to day in Paris was touched off by Tautin's death, which the students blamed on the gendarmes. "We are not looking for a fight," Jacques Sauvageot, chief of the National Students' Union, told a news conference, "but if it is forced on us, we accept."

Daniel Cohn-Bendit, 23, a leader of the radical "March 22 group" of students, was at the news conference but took no part in its proceedings.

Angry university students ranged through the Latin Quarter in Paris through the night and clashed with riot police. Police said that 26 persons were hurt, though only one had to be hospitalized, and 22 demonstrators were arrested.

Another student demonstration was scheduled for Paris early tonight.

Gold prices in Paris shot to record heights, a reflection of the newly unsettled situation. Buyers apparently were worried about stability of the franc and also sought a hedge against inflation due to wage increases granted late last month.

Officials opened an investigation into the drowning of a young man in the Seine at Meulan, outside Paris, which sparked the Latin Quarter demonstrations. The students claimed the police threw the student into the river. The police said he jumped in to evade an identity check.

The demonstration came on the first day of France's two-week campaign for National Assembly elections June 23. Meanwhile, an estimated one million workers in key industries remained on strike, with no apparent progress in negotiations. The biggest automobile companies are still closed down and most large Paris department stores are shut. High schools have not been reopened and universities remain occupied by striking students.

Although the French government has managed to come to terms with the overwhelming majority of the striking workers by granting substantial wage increases, the student uprisings are another matter.

Quick Return of Ray Sought, Probe Continues

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — U.S. legal experts worked today on plans to take James Earl Ray quickly and safely back to the United States for trial while police on both sides of the Atlantic continued their investigation to learn whether Ray had helped in his four-nation flight.

American authorities took the first formal step toward extradition Monday night by obtaining a provisional British warrant charging Ray with the murder of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee today signed extradition papers for Ray. A spokesman for the governor's office in Nashville said that Ellington forwarded the papers to the U.S. Department of Justice.

Some legal experts suggested the British government might speed up the process by deporting Ray as an undesirable alien. But other lawyers said there is a strong tradition against using this procedure as a substitute for extradition.

The 40-year-old escaped convict was held in Brixton Prison after his two-minute appearance Monday in Bow Street Court on charges of carrying a forged passport and a loaded gun, the charges on which he was arrested at London Airport Saturday under the name of Ramon George Sneyd.

Ray at his first court appearance Monday was assigned a British lawyer at his own request and ordered held without bail for another hearing June 18 on the passport and gun charges.

If extradition proceedings are brought, the court will require evidence of a case against Ray and he will then have 15 days to appeal to the High Court. If Ray's lawyers raised points of law there, a further appeal might be made to the House of Lords and the process could take months.

In the two months American authorities searched for Ray following King's assassination April 4 in Memphis, Tenn., he went from the United States to Canada on April 8, to London May 6 and to Lisbon May 8. He left his Lisbon hotel on May 17 and surfaced again in London on May 28.

Police in those countries sought anyone who might have known or helped Ray, and authorities in Canada also tried to learn how Ray obtained information on the three Toronto men whose names he used as aliases.

All three men have dark hair and are about the same height and weight as Ray.

Ramon George Sneyd, whose name Ray used on his passport, is a Toronto constable, Paul Bridgman, whose name Ray used at one Toronto rooming house, is a consultant teacher with the Toronto board of education.

Ray first was sought under the name Eric Starvo Galt. Eric St. Vincent Galt, a Toronto warehouse foreman, has a signature which looks like Eric Starvo Galt. He uses the middle initials St. V., but with small zeros instead of periods.

Galt and Ray have similar scars, in the middle of the forehead and on the palm of the right hand.

"I don't know what to think," Galt said. "It's a bit more than coincidence. The weight is right, the height range is right and the identification marks are there."

"I've wondered where our paths might have crossed, but I just don't know."

Galt said he was in the Memphis area two years ago and that he traveled regularly to Florida for skin diving in the summer.

Ray, however, was in the Missouri state prison until he escaped in April 1967 with more than 12 years remaining of a 20-year sentence. Missouri also seeks Ray's extradition from Britain on the prison break charge. If he is returned to the United States, the Tennessee murder charge is expected to be given precedence over the Missouri charge and a federal charge that Ray conspired to violate Dr. King's civil rights.

Police believe Ray was the man who checked into a Montreal rooming house last summer under the name of Galt.

Galt said he was not in Montreal last summer and that FBI agents told him he was the only Eric S. Galt in Canada.

Canadian police also were checking a report by Mrs. Yee Sun Loo, owner of a Toronto rooming house where Ray stayed, that a "fat man" passed an envelope to Ray on May 2, the day he paid $345 for an excursion flight ticket to London.

A spokesman for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said preliminary investigation indicated the man may not have known Ray and may just have been making a delivery.

Martorana Bares Threats, Switches Support to Bell

By LYNN MULVANEY

Charging that he has been "condemned by the Savago forces and threatened with political retaliation," County legislator Joseph Martorana surprised GOP circles today by announcing a change in his support for the Republican Assembly nomination from Peter J. Savago to H. Clark Bell Jr.

Terming Savago's tactics as "vindictive," Martorana stated, "To distort the truth and to threaten political retaliation for temporary political gain, at the expense of losing your fellow worker's trust and respect, is not the honorable road to political victory."

Letter to Committeemen

Martorana made his charges in a letter to all Republican committeemen, telling them that the reason for his switch to Bell is centered on the issue of recognition of an employee's organization as provided by Taylor Law.

Martorana and the salary study committee of which he is chairman, had recommended recognition of the Civil Service Employees' Association. However, Savago opposed the committee's work by scuttling Martorana's resolution, he candidate.

charged, adding that eventually the CSEA was recognized.

Pointing to the aftermath of his split with Savago over the CSEA issue, Martorana revealed that "because he was the truth, he has now been condemned by the Savago forces and threatened with political retaliation."

EXCLUSIVE

Martorana's announcement in support of H. Clark Bell comes three months after he himself decided not to run in the Assembly race and declared his support for Savago.

Referring to this period, Martorana said, "As I look back in months, I find myself appreciating more the basic human qualities and characteristics of a candidate."

"To me now, more than ever before, honesty, fairness, sincerity, truth and humility are important 'musts' in today's world of political representation."

Martorana concluded his letter saying, "In the search for the Republican Assembly candidate who possesses most of the fine qualities I seek in a candidate, I admit to you with clear conscience that H. Clark Bell is such a man. For this reason he is now receiving my support and I hope yours."

Primary Opponents

Bell and Savago will face each other in the primary next Tuesday.

Bell, Kingston attorney and Woodstock resident served both Ulster and Dutchess Counties as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. In Savago, New Paltz insurance man, has served as New Paltz supervisor, was chairman of the former Board of Supervisors and is presently chairman of the County Legislature.

3 Kennedy Slates To Go Uncommitted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three slates of delegates who supported the presidential bid of Robert F. Kennedy in New York State say that, if elected next week, they will go to the Democratic National Convention uncommitted.

Their announcements Monday were coupled, however, with pledges to represent "the ideals and principles of our beloved late senator" when the party selects its presidential candidate in August.

The Kennedy pledged slates in the 25th and 26th congressional districts, Westchester County, said they would try to put into the Democratic platform goals Kennedy had espoused.

Their counterparts in the five-county 31st District in Northern New York said their decision was made "in memory and in tribute" to the slain senator.

Three delegates and three alternates will be chosen in each of the state's 41 congressional districts in the party primary June 18.

In most districts, registered Democrats will choose from among delegate slates favoring Kennedy, Vice President Hubert Humphrey or Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Of New York's 190 convention delegates, 123 are elected in the primary, 65 are picked by the Democratic State Committee after the primary and the two other places go to the state's national committeewoman and national committeewoman.

Rolison Favors Gun-Crime Bill

ALBANY — Senator Jay P. Rolison, Jr. (R., Dutchess-Utster) said today that he will introduce a bill in the next session of the Legislature requiring a mandatory jail sentence for any person convicted of a crime where either a gun was used or a gun was in the possession of the person committing the crime. The Senator's statement follows:

"It is my intention, if re-elected, to introduce legislation to prohibit probation or a suspended sentence to any person convicted of a crime in which a gun was used, whether fired or not, or where a gun was in the possession of the criminal.

"Despite the New York State Sullivan Law, the use of guns in crimes continues to rise. I believe we must make it absolutely clear that we intend to crack down and hard on the lawless element in our society who would use deadly weapons or threaten their use in the commission of crime.

"It is time that we strengthen our penalties and insure that those who use or carry these weapons will not get off with a mere suspended sentence or probation. We must make it clear to the criminal mind that law will again rule our land.

"I am under no illusion that this legislation will cure the serious drift that is occurring in our society today, but I do believe that it is at least a step towards effective 'no nonsense' justice which we so badly need.

"Those of us in public office have a responsibility to meet this crisis of lawlessness and to do so promptly."

Charge 'Hippie' Trio With Man's Murder

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Police here have charged three young men they describe as "hippies" with murder in the shooting of Ronald Kanwischer, 24, here late Saturday.

They said Donald Burleigh and James Weyman, both 18, and Milton Brush, 21, all of Rochester were charged Monday night.

Detective Capt. James J. Cavoti said the three were hitchhiking and that Kanwischer gave them a ride.

They forced Kanwischer to get down in his car, Cavoti said, and when he struggled with them Burleigh fired one shot from a .38 automatic pistol hitting Kanwischer. The three ran from the scene, Cavoti said.

Kanwischer staggered out of his car on this city's southeast side and collapsed on the street.

Cavoti said another man, Richard A. Roberts, 23, who lived in the same building as Burleigh and Weyman, was charged with criminal possession of stolen property and illegal possession of a dangerous weapon in connection with the case.

Roberts, Cavoti said, sold the automatic pistol to Burleigh for $30. It was stolen, he said.

Burleigh, Weyman and Roberts live at 936 Monroe Ave., Brush at 310 Kenwood Ave. Kanwischer lived at 29 Strathallan Park.

If Harm Is Feared

Court Rules Policemen May Frisk for Weapons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court's latest decision in the police powers versus personal rights controversy is in favor of the police officer, deviating from the recent trend toward tighter restrictions on law enforcement.

In its next-to-last decision day before summer recess, the court ruled 8 to 1 Monday that police may stop and "frisk" a subject for dangerous weapons if they reasonably fear harm is intended toward themselves or others.

The ruling comes at a time when the court is under heavy public criticism for allegedly putting the "rights of criminals" ahead of the rights of law-abiding citizens in a series of decisions over the last two years.

Culminating the criticism was an attack on the court by Congress through a bill now on President Johnson's desk. It was designed to overturn certain court rulings that narrowed the circumstances under which confessions and eyewitness testimony would be admissible as evidence.

Chief Justice Earl Warren said in a qualifying the majority opinion, Monday, that the policeman must have a reasonable suspicion that the person he searches is armed and dangerous and that "criminal activity may be afoot."

Cites Violence Frequency

Citing the frequency of armed violence in the nation and the number of law officers wounded or killed annually, Warren said: "We cannot blind ourselves to the need for law enforcement officers to protect themselves and other prospective victims of violence in situations where they may lack probable cause for an arrest."

Cite Motorists

Two motorists were cited by Highland state police Monday afternoon following a two-vehicle mishap on Dock Road in Milton.

John Dagostino, 43, of North Road, Milton, was operating a backhoe machine when it was involved in a mishap with a car driven by Catherine Gal-

In other decisions, the court: —Upheld, in a ruling involving New York, state laws permitting the loan of public school text books to parochial school students.

—Upheld the right of six New Yorkers to challenge in federal courts the constitutionality of a federal school aid program that allocates funds on a pupil basis for library, laboratory and similar construction. The appellants argue that the program violates the church-state separation principle.

—Denied a hearing to Annette Buchanan, former University of Oregon student editor, in her appeal of a $300 fine levied for refusing to identify to a grand jury the sources of an article she wrote on marijuana use at the school.

—Approved the 1966 federal law which extended minimum wage and hour benefits to an estimated 1.65 million employees of state schools and hospitals.

—Upheld the authority of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to regulate the multi-million dollar Community Antenna Television (CATV) industry. It ruled the FCC did not exceed its authority by blocking expansion of a CATV operation in San Diego so that hearings could be held.

Three Hurt, Trio Cited After Mishaps

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Three persons were injured and three motorists were cited by Kingston police as the result of motor vehicle accidents that occurred in the city Monday and early today.

At 9:20 p. m. yesterday a 1967 sedan operated by Steven C. Conti, 36, of Forest Glen Park, and a 1966 sedan driven by Anthony Wise, 24, of 107 lided at Foxhall Avenue and Columbus Street, Hudson, columned Street. Wise was summoned for passing a stop sign, police reported.

Conti was driving south on Foxhall Avenue and Wise was making a left turn from Downs Street when the accident occurred. Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital were Patricia Conti, 11, who received a laceration of the right leg, and Conti, who sustained possible head injuries. X-rays were taken at the hospital.

Aleta Mastrangelo, 20, of 147 Downs Street, a passenger in the Wise car was treated at the hospital for lacerations of the forehead and mouth, according to a report of the mishap.

Cornelius O'Neill, 35, of 291 Hasbrouck Avenue, was booked by Patrolman Anthony Turck on charges of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and failure to keep to the right. Police reports showed his car was involved in a collision with a parked car owned by Marie Coughlin of 22 Grand Street.

The accident occurred at 9:10 p. m. on Grand Street near Prince Street, when O'Neill was driving west on the former street and crossed to the left of center of the roadway and struck the parked vehicle.

Vincent Contreras, 45, of 91 Cameron Street, Rochester, was summoned by police on charges of drunken driving and failure to keep to the right. An accident report by police noted that the Rochester man was driving along Washington Avenue early today when his car went to the left side of the avenue and hit a parked 1961 suburban owned by William Rapoport of 451 Washington Avenue.

Shortly after 2:35 p. m. yesterday cars driven by Christine B. Livingston, 20, of RD 5, Box 327, Kingston, and Ursula P. Shuman, 38, of 14 South Pine Street, were involved in a collision at Broadway and Foxhall Avenue, according to police records.

The Livingston car was traveling south on Broadway and the other vehicle was heading south and as the driver started to pull out in the traffic lane the mishap occurred. No injuries were listed.

LOCAL REACTION to the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy took visually artistic form in at least one instance in Ulster County. Art students at Group 212, the year-old experimental art school on Route 212, Saugerties, reacted to the violence that took lives of President John F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King, and Senator Robert F. Kennedy by designing and painting their own billboard across from main entrance to grounds of their wooded, lakeside colony. Billboard accents realism of wantonness resulting from lax gun laws; shows prone figure in stark black lying in pool of bright red blood. Printed message on board calls for stronger enforcement of gun laws; pays tribute to trio of national leaders who have been victims of assassins in recent years. Board has a shocking quality and impact that has tended to slow passing motorists since it appeared on the state highway here late last week. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Bearsville Man Critical, Stabbed at Turnau Opera

A Bearsville man was in critical condition at Benedictine Hospital today and a New York City man was held in the county jail in lieu of bail as the aftermath of a stabbing which occurred in a building adjacent to the structure which formerly housed the Turnau opera in Woodstock, according to Kingston State Police.

Trooper Carl VanWagenen said authorities received a call from Benedictine Hospital in 35, of 63 Avenue D, Manhattan, on a charge of first degree assault.

Authorities said Boyle had been visiting friends at the opera.

Rice was arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan on the assault charge. He requested a preliminary hearing which was set for Thursday at 8:30 p. m. In lieu of $2,000 bail he was committed to the county jail to await another court appearance.

Saugerties Questioning: Charges, Counter-Charge

Questioning of three teenagers suspected of glue sniffing Sunday afternoon by Saugerties Police Chief Gordon Keeley resulted in a counter charge by the three youths that the police chief was intoxicated.

Chief Keeley said while off duty and in plain clothes Sunday afternoon he came upon three teenagers on Russell Street apparently sniffing glue. The chief called an officer at Saugerties Police Headquarters and the three teenage boys were brought in for questioning. No glue tubes could be found on their person and charges were not filed, the chief said.

About two hours later, the three youths returned to police headquarters and charged that the police chief was intoxicated when he brought them in for questioning.

The matter was brought up before Village Police Justice David Goble and dismissed due to lack of evidence. The police would not divulge the names of the teenagers.

Contrary to reports elsewhere, no charges were filed in Ulster County District Attorney's Office in the matter.

Boat Recovered

The 14-foot wooden boat with 30 horsepower outboard motor missing since Friday from The Anchorage, Eddyville was found Monday near the Rondout Marina, the County Sheriff's Office reported. County Investigator Harold T. Bowers said Glenn Barnham of Connelly reported he found the boat and was holding it for the owner, William DeCicco of Lincoln Street, at Rondout Marina.

Box Lunch Picnic

During the last meeting of the Mid-Hudson Senior Citizens Social Club, it was decided to have a box lunch picnic on July 16. At the June 18 meeting, a committee will report on transportation and different picnic areas available. This meeting will be held at the educational building of the First Methodist Church in Highland at 1:30 p. m. All senior citizens in the area are invited to attend.

Dyson, Liddy Agree: Must Stop Violence

John S. Dyson, Democratic candidate for Congress and G. Gordon Liddy, who seeks the Republican nomination for Congress in next Tuesday's primary, met in debate at Valatie last night.

Both men have repeatedly tried to engage Hamilton Fish Jr., another GOP candidate who will oppose Liddy in the primary.

Fish has refused many offers, including one made by CBS in New York, offering time for a Fish-Liddy confrontation.

Dyson, appearing at the American Legion Hall last night, resumed his campaign pledging "to carry on Senator Kennedy's fight against injustice, apathy, callousness, hatred and disregard for law which so plagues our land."

Liddy said he felt violence and disorder can never be accepted as a way to effect social change. Riots must be suppressed, crime must be stopped, he suggested, for "civil rights means civil responsibility too."

During debate differences between Dyson and Liddy's position arose in the area of taxation, Vietnam, and gun legislation. Liddy placed a great deal on emphasis on the need to control violence.

Dyson called Senator Kennedy's assassination, "a personal loss."

He stated that he had met with Senator Kennedy last year in his New York apartment and "discussed at length the need for members of my generation to engage in meeting our public challenges."

Dyson called upon America to become once again, "a peaceful and compassionate society." Commenting on the recent rash of killings and disorder, the Democratic Candidate stated, "there is something wrong in a society which increasingly turns to violence for the solutions of its problems."

Dyson indicated that the government alone could not

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 11, 1968

Age Discrimination

It will not be legal to refuse employment to persons from 40 to 65 years of age because of age beginning Wednesday, June 12. Employers, labor unions and employment agencies will be barred from arbitrarily refusing a job on account of age.

The law is drawn to promote the employment of older workers based on their ability. It applies to employers of 50 or more persons (the number drops to 25 after June 30) in an industry affecting interstate commerce, employment agencies serving such employers and labor organizations with 50 or more members (also drawn to 25 after July 1).

The new law adds age to race, creed, color, sex and national origin discrimination banned by the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Like that law, it specifies an enforcement procedure.

At a time of almost full employment for people with needed skills, the law may not affect many people today. (We are not talking now about hard-core unemployed due to lack of training or education for given jobs. Employers will continue to have the right to set qualifications.)

The trend is to hire younger men ambitious to get ahead. The younger workers are also trained in required skills. This practice seems to be tolerated under the law, because the only exception it makes is where "age is a bona fide occupational qualification, reasonably necessary to the normal operations of the particular business."

Overall, however, the new law is good. While many look forward to retirement, and the retirement age is getting younger, many more have come to realize retirement is stultifying. They now can stay at work without fear of discrimination at least until they pass age 65.

Poverty's Twin, Ill Health

The Office of Economic Opportunity, more popularly known as the anti-poverty campaign, through its office for health affairs is establishing neighborhood health centers in low-income areas designed to reduce the twin evil of poverty and sickness. By improving health, the idea is that people will be better able to qualify for and hold jobs.

So far, 27 centers have begun to function in New York City, Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles and in many other trouble areas. At last count, 44 centers had been approved by OEO.

The health centers are professionally staffed. Medical teams include doctors who look after adults and children, a public health nurse, social worker and often a psychiatrist. They are closely tied in with the nearest hospital. Their job is to give first-rate medical care to the whole family.

The total effect, it is hoped, will improve the health and job opportunities of the communities. With 30 million Americans in the poverty sector of the country, obviously these health centers will not begin to reach the majority. However, it is right that they should be located in key trouble areas, because they can help lift some of the pressures that produce community difficulties.

Fighting for Change

Negro riots and student disorders both signify fighting for change in American life, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, vice chairman of the President's Commission on Civil Disorder, said at the Vassar College Commencement in Poughkeepsie.

Crediting the 2,000 students who helped Senator Eugene J. McCarthy win the New Hampshire primary with causing President Johnson to announce his retirement, to get Vietnam peace talks under way, and to curtail the bombing of North Vietnam, Lindsay said that the McCarthy youth brigade had accomplished more for peace in weeks than other students had in long months of "iconoclastic dissent."

Lindsay was emphasizing what so many have noted in this campaign: The sudden and almost miraculous change when students "sensibly put aside negative, bizarre and often nihilistic methods of dissent, got a haircut, shave, put on a tie, and went into politics."

Even if their effort does not take their candidate to the White House because of things beyond his control or theirs, the youth of America have discovered their power in politics. They can build on that discovery in November and in subsequent elections. They know now that things can be changed without lawlessness and without destruction.

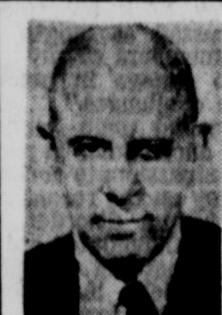

Stating that Richard M. Nixon was "99.4 per cent sure of winning the nomination," Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois said he would accept an invitation from Nixon to run as Vice President on his ticket. Percy would attract young progressive voters.

Cop on the Beat

David Lawrence Says

Will Edward Kennedy Run With Humphrey?

WASHINGTON—Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts could emerge at the Democratic National Convention as the vice-presidential candidate on a ticket headed by Hubert H. Humphrey. There may be lots of reasons why some of the Humphrey followers would prefer someone else. But with the tragic departure of Robert Kennedy from the political race, the while picture has changed.

When the Humphrey people look at the political scene today, they will have to recognize that the Kennedy strength has gone up by leaps and bounds in the past few weeks. The fact of the matter is that the Kennedy forces control a substantial number of delegates in the populous states where Hubert Humphrey needs all the help he can get. All indications are that Robert Kennedy had tremendous support among minority groups particularly the negroes. This would undoubtedly carry over to his brother, along with the Catholic vote. So the question of what Senator Edward Kennedy could contribute to a Humphrey victory in November may be crucial.

All this doesn't, of course, mean at the moment that the Humphrey entourage would necessarily want Senator Kennedy on the ticket, or that there will be any immediate indication of a desire to select him at the convention. Also, much will depend on whether Edward Kennedy speaks out early in support of Hubert Humphrey and strives for a united party instead of bailing out the side of Senator McCarthy until convention time.

It has been suggested that the younger brother as well as the followers of Robert Kennedy would throw in their lot with Senator Eugene McCarthy and would try to line up support for him. The Massachusetts Senator, however, would have more to gain by running for the vice presidency. In that office, there would be an opportunity to expose himself throughout the country and the world in a manner that would help him in a subsequent campaign as a presidential candidate.

The younger Kennedy is not the same type of personality as was his brother Robert. He is a much more amiable, cordial and extroverted individual. He has in his relative short time in the Senate shown himself capable of getting along with opposing views on controversial questions.

Senator Kennedy has gained experience hunting delegates in some of the important non-primary states and is capable of dealing with state and local political organizations. He managed John F. Kennedy's campaign for re-election to the Senate in 1958, and was western state co-ordinator in helping his brother John win the nomination and election to the presidency in 1960. He immediately joined his brother Robert when the latter announced in March that he was entering the presidential race this year, and actively campaigned with him.

Senator Edward Kennedy is only 36 years old, but he is a very intelligent and well-informed person who knows his way around in government and in politics. If he should become Vice President of the United States, and should serve eight years as second man in an administration, he would still be only 44 years of age when the chance came for him to run for the top spot. In the meantime, he would have an opportunity to become known to voters across the nation and to cement relations with political organizations in all states. Should fate during that period create a vacancy in the presidency, Edward Kennedy would become the second Kennedy to occupy the White House.

The Massachusetts Senator has thus far been the subject of as much controversy as surrounded his older brothers. He has not, for instance, taken the same kind of positive position in dissent on the Vietnam war or on some other issues as did Robert Kennedy. He has concentrated rather on domestic affairs and worked as a Senator through the customary legislative process.

The general feeling is that Edward Kennedy will eventually seek the highest office in the land. His whole background has been in the political field, and political ambition is in the family tradition. Senator Kennedy himself, in a recent speech for his brother Robert at a barbecue in Iowa, referred to his having spoken there in 1960 for his brother John and of being introduced this year as "the brother of a presidential candidate." Then he said: "If about eight years from now you see me coming back to this picnic—well..." The audience roared its approval of Edward Kennedy's allusion to a future candidacy for the presidency.

Congress Out of Touch With Public on Legislative Needs

By PETER LISAGOR

Chicago Daily News Service WASHINGTON — Congress is "out of touch" with the American people, according to Dr. George Gallup.

The Dean of Public Opinion Pollsters cites what he calls "very good evidence" of a legislative lag in the public's attitude toward gun control, presidential primaries, the electoral college, and the whole convention process.

The first poll his firm took on handguns was 30 years ago. Gallup told the National Press Club, and 84 per cent of the people wanted controls on pistols and revolvers. A year ago, 85 per cent favored firearms registration, he said.

Congress passed a gun-control bill that President Johnson criticized as inadequate in the light of the Murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The public looks upon the present primary system, involving only a few states in a direct contest between candidates, as "A complete flop," Gallup said. It would like to see a national primary two or three weeks before the convention, he said.

Several bills proposing such a primary have languished in the congressional hopper for years, but no action has been taken. According to other polls, he said, the public would do away with the archaic electoral college and put a limit on campaign spending. He said that in England, the law requires that "if you have a tea party, you've got to account for the cost of the tea."

The public also would change the present conventions "doing away with the horseplay," he said.

As for the current mode of campaigning, Gallup said that "the running up and down in supermarkets... the laying on of hands, is a great big fraud."

He said that despite the effort and cost, the polls have revealed a difference of 1 percentage point before and after such campaigns.

Most Americans would support a change in the election date from the first Tuesday in November to one in September to give the winner more time to prepare himself, Gallup said.

The death of Kennedy, Gallup said in answer to a question, probably will help Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's candidacy, but Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey remains the overwhelming favorite of Democratic Party leaders who not only help elect delegates but in many cases are delegates themselves.

Had Kennedy lived, Gallup ventured, it would have been "quite unusual," even with his primary victory in California, for him to have overcome Humphrey's advantage. A key question now is where the Negro vote that Kennedy attracted so gratly will go, he said.

Gallup said the choice of a Vice-Presidential candidate was "fairly meaningless," and that politicians generally give greater weight to it than the public.

He said it was a "great American myth... one of the greatest delusions," that people yield to a bandwagon psychology to which the polls contribute.

If the bandwagon theory was valid, he said, Gov. Thomas Dewey would have won hands down over President Harry S. Truman in 1948.

"There isn't one shred of evidence to support the theory," he said. Gallup said that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has "consistently done better" in the polls than former Vice President Richard M. Nixon because of his appeal to the dissident Democrats and independents.

He called the Republican Party "a third party, in a sense," with fewer people than independents and dissident Democrats. He saw a "trend to the right" in America. "Otherwise, the Republicans wouldn't have a chance and Nixon wouldn't be in the running," he said.

Drew Pearson Says There Are New Techniques To Prevent Assassination

WASHINGTON — Tucked away in the crime bill, otherwise riddled beyond recognition, is a section which could help to prevent assassination in the future. It calls for the establishment of an institute for crime prevention and criminal justice which would conduct research on modern techniques of preventing crime rather than putting so much reliance on convicting criminals after they are caught.

Author of the institute for crime prevention is James Scheuer, a young Congressman from the Bronx who had to buck J. Edgar Hoover to get the institute idea accepted.

He points out that the United States is far behind other countries in its techniques for preventing both crime and assassination. Latin American presidents, for instance, are already using a magnatite to detect those carrying hidden weapons. This is an apparatus about the size of a briefcase which can be placed at the entrance of a meeting hall and will detect anyone carrying a revolver. It can even differentiate between a bunch of keys and a revolver.

General Electric, according to Rep. Scheuer, has developed a much smaller apparatus about the size of a flashlight which can detect hidden weapons. Had such a detector been in use at the Ambassador hotel last week, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would probably be alive today.

Rep. Scheuer also says that an amazing electric eye is in the process of development which automatically raises the window of a limousine in case a bullet is fired at a distance of about 1,000 feet. Had this been perfected, John F. Kennedy might be alive today had the top of his car been up in Dallas.

Preventing Crime

Rep. Scheuer also proposes that the institute of criminal justice study the problems of crime prevention and apprehension.

Only 24 per cent of those who commit serious crimes are apprehended," says

Scheuer. "The problem is not so much convictions but, first, prevention; second, apprehension."

"One very easy means of preventing crime is locking automobiles. Today there are 600,000 auto thefts a year, and one half of the cars are stolen because keys are left in the lock. There are other means of preventing car thefts, such as locking the gear shift, locking the wheels. If these were employed, car thefts could be cut from 600,000 to 100,000."

"We spend millions every year in researching causes of muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and heart disease," says Scheuer. "Why not spend a few million in researching the causes of the disease of crime? So far we have spent almost nothing in this disease, its prevention, its cure or its means of apprehension."

Most people don't realize it, but police departments and the FBI do not use such modern techniques as voice prints and dry blood prints. Nor have most of them perfected hair prints, though the FBI used this technique in identifying James Earl Ray, the suspected assassin of Martin Luther King.

By using such modern techniques, police departments could get away from their present reliance on pre-trial confessions. This is what the Supreme Court has restricted as an invasion of constitutional rights.

Hoover Says No

When the Bronx Congressman approached Attorney General Ramsey Clark with his idea for an institute of crime prevention, believe it or not, Clark said no. Reason was the opposition of J. Edgar Hoover, who wanted no competition with the FBI. Clark was already having enough troubles with Hoover and didn't want to antagonize him further.

Rep. Manny Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, also discouraged Scheuer because of Hoover's opposition. Rep. John Rooney, the Brooklyn Democrat, was even more vigorously opposed.

Finally Scheuer went to some of his Republican friends. He got immediate help from Robert McClory, R-Ill., later from Reps. Clark MacGregor, Minn., and William Cramer, Fla. Later, Attorney General Clark changed his mind and okayed the institute, and Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., was very helpful in the Senate.

So after three years of selling the idea of crime prevention as more important than crime conviction, Scheuer finally got his bill accepted by both Houses of Congress. Note: Other sections of the anti-crime bill are so weak, such as the gun control bill, and so garbled, that the President is giving serious consideration to a veto.

Future Commitments

To Australia During his secret talks with Australian Prime Minister John Gorton, the President urged him to help share responsibility for defending Southeast Asia. Specifically, he asked Gorton to leave Australian troops in Malaysia and Singapore after the British pull out.

Gorton replied bluntly that the Australians were willing to stay in Southeast Asia as long as the Americans did. But he asked a significant question. Would the United States come to their aid if the Australians were attacked on the Malay Peninsula? He noted that the Australian-New Zealand-United States defense pact contained an escape clause.

The President assured Gorton that as long as he remained in the White House the United States "will not read the fine print in the treaty."

To this Prime Minister Gorton noted that Johnson wasn't running for reelection. He asked whether the next President would give the same commitment. LBJ acknowledged that he couldn't speak for all the candidates, and he declined to make his own commitment public. He pointed out that discretion is sometimes the best policy in an election year.

Egyptians Are Grumbling Over Nasser and Wretched Poverty

By RAYMOND R. COFFEY

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service ROME — "The government is having a show to prove we have an air force again," the stubby, mustachioed Egyptian businessman said.

"So the Israelis can destroy it again," he added with a snort and a so-what shrug. The businessman was explaining why Cairo airport was closed to travelers: the government was staging a fly-past of the new fighter-bombers Russia has given it to replace the planes lost in the six-day war with Israel last June.

What he said was typical of the attitudes expressed by several Egyptians encountered during three days of wandering about this capital of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime. Despite all the noise Nasser and other Arab leaders are making about preserving until victory is achieved and not surrendering an inch of Arab soil, it seems a lot of people are not listening.

There is grumbling, an air of defeatism, hopelessness, winning self-pity. People seem more concerned with the poverty the last war drove them into than with taking on the Israelis again.

Some of what they say is downright subversive. On the way in from the airport, a cabdriver kept pointing out statues and monuments to assorted Egyptian kings and statesmen—all of them now dead and gone. Is there any statue of Nasser, he was asked. "Not yet—but we hope so soon," he grinned. "I think you know what I mean."

"We are fed up," said another man. "We want another war or finish no war. War, okay, we know we have it. Or finish is finish. But this constant, inconclusive friction is no good. I myself have lost 3,000 pounds (about $7,000) in lost income and savings. What cost 2 pounds before now cost 3 pounds."

The United Arab Republic has lost $100,000,000 (M) alone in tolls from the Suez Canal, closed since the war. The important tourist industry has been all but destroyed. People here see so few Americans now that their first assumption is that you are English. And they complain so freely to strangers that it seems a fair assumption that even more deeply and vocally bitter.

Nasser, one man complained, headquarters in the palace formerly occupied by King Farouk and also entertains there "his friends like (Russian Premier Alexei) Kossygin and (Yugoslav president) Tito (these people who bring us nothing but poverty."

The three most visible ingredients of Egyptian life are desperate poverty, wretched squalor—and millions of flies feeding on it all. "What can we do, sir? What can we do?" asked one man, describing the new depths of poverty that have afflicted the country since the war.

While poverty dominates the conversations, there are also bitter complaints about the Israelis. "They are becoming more wild (aggressive) every day," one man said. "They get too much help from America or they would not be so wild."

Only when pressed do they get around to conceding that the Arab countries are getting even more help from Russia than Israel is from the United States and they conveniently forget the fact that the United States is also now resuming arms shipments to Arab Jordan.

The whole city seems to be walking around in a dispirited slouch. They may have a long way from recovering from the kick in the teeth the Israelis gave their morale.

DeGaulle-Never the Same

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service LONDON—No matter what happens in the French elections later this month, "Charles De Gaulle will never be the same again" in the opinion of British and other students of French affairs stationed in London.

The full effects of the French strikes and the accompanying political shakeup cannot yet be assessed. They will depend not only on the results of the elections but the long-range consequences of the important concessions made by the government in an effort to end the strikes in various industries.

That these consequences will be serious is indicated by some of the deals which have already been concluded: Wage increases ranging from 14 to 20 per cent for Paris region electricity workers, a 13 per cent hike for bus and subway workers.

But, say the experts, De Gaulle will never be able to erase the big blots he made in his copy book during the troubles. They cite four that they feel particularly reflect on his judgment and on any claim he may have to continued domination of French political life. They are:

1. The wholesale unrest among French workers and union leaders, which was revealed by strikes and occupation of mines and factories throughout the country. This was a repudiation of De Gaulle's policy of economic restraint.

He is now revealed as basically and sadly mistaken in opposing the pleas for increased economic growth repeatedly made by Prime Minister Georges Pompidou and Finance Minister Michel Debre.

By the same sign the star of Pompidou has risen. "If the Gaullist win the new elections the regime will be led by Pompidou, not De Gaulle," they say. "As an economist the 'old man' has had it."

2. He will never really live down the way in which he underestimated the seriousness of the situation when the student troubles began. By going off to Romania on an unnecessary junket he advertised his miscalculation.

3. Premature use of tough riot police against the students of the Sorbonne against the advice of the prefect of police was absolutely wrong. It was bound to be interpreted as a sign of callous indifference to honest complaints.

4. His radio broadcast to the nation after five days of inaction fell flat. The worst scophants among the trained seals of the pro-Gaullists press couldn't pretend otherwise. Most ordinary Frenchmen felt that he had lost his touch and his power.

These are the views of seasoned experts who have never been known for anti-Gaullism. They have been reached after careful consideration.

The public also would change the present conventions "doing away with the horseplay," he said.

As for the current mode of campaigning, Gallup said that "the running up and down in supermarkets . . . the laying on of hands, is a great big fraud."

He said that despite the effort and cost, the polls have revealed a difference of 1 percentage point before and after such campaigns.

Most Americans would support a change in the election date from the first Tuesday in November to one in September to give the winner more time to prepare himself, Gallup said.

The death of Kennedy, Gallup said in answer to a question, probably will help Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's candidacy, but Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey remains the overwhelming favorite of Democratic Party leaders who not only help elect delegates but in many cases are delegates themselves.

Had Kennedy lived, Gallup ventured, it would have been "quite unusual," even with his primary victory in California, for him to have overcome Humphrey's advantage. A key question now is where the Negro vote that Kennedy attracted so gratly will go, he said.

Gallup said the choice of a Vice-presidential candidate was "fairly meaningless," and that politicians generally give greater weight to it than the public.

He said it was a "great American myth . . . one of the greatest delusions," that people yield to a bandwagon psychology to which the polls contribute.

If the bandwagon theory was valid, he said, Gov. Thomas Dewey would have won hands down over President Harry S. Truman in 1948.

"There isn't one shred of evidence to support the theory," he said. Gallup said that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has "consistently done better" in the polls than former Vice President Richard M. Nixon because of his appeal to the dissident Democrats and independents.

He called the Republican Party "a third party, in a sense," with fewer people than independents and dissident Democrats. He saw a "trend to the right" in America. "Otherwise, the Republicans wouldn't have a chance and Nixon wouldn't be in the running," he said.

Drew Pearson Says There Are New Techniques To Prevent Assassination

WASHINGTON—Tucked away in the crime bill, otherwise riddled beyond recognition, is a section which could help to prevent assassination in the future. It calls for the establishment of an institute for crime prevention and criminal justice which would conduct research on modern techniques of preventing crime rather than putting so much reliance on convicting criminals after they are caught.

Author of the institute for crime prevention is James Scheuer, a young Congressman from the Bronx who had to buck J. Edgar Hoover to get the institute idea accepted.

He points out that the United States is far behind other countries in its techniques for preventing both crime and assassination. Latin American presidents, for instance, are already using a magnifying glass to detect those carrying hidden weapons. This is an apparatus about the size of a briefcase which can be placed at the entrance of a meeting hall and will detect anyone carrying a revolver. It can even differentiate between a bunch of keys and a revolver.

General Electric, according to Rep. Scheuer, has developed a much smaller apparatus about the size of a flashlight which can detect hidden weapons. Had such a detector been in use at the Ambassador hotel last week, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would probably be alive today.

Rep. Scheuer also says that an amazing electric eye is in the process of development which automatically raises the window of a limousine in case a bullet is fired at a distance of about 1,000 feet. Had this been perfected, John F. Kennedy might be alive today had the top of his car been up in Dallas.

Preventing Crime

Rep. Scheuer also proposes that the institute of criminal justice study the problems of crime prevention and apprehension.

Only 24 per cent of those who commit serious crimes are apprehended," says

Scheuer. "The problem is not so much convictions but, first, prevention; second, apprehension."

"One very easy means of preventing crime is locking automobiles. Today there are 600,000 auto thefts a year, and one half of the cars are stolen because keys are left in the lock. There are other means of preventing car thefts, such as locking the gear shift, locking the wheels. If these were employed, car thefts could be cut from 600,000 to 100,000."

"We spend millions every year in researching causes of muscular dystrophy, epilepsy and heart disease," says Scheuer. "Why not spend a few million in researching the causes of the disease of crime? So far we have spent almost nothing in this disease, its prevention, its cure or its means of apprehension."

Most people don't realize it, but police departments and the FBI do not use such modern techniques as voice prints and dry blood prints. Nor have most of them perfected hair prints, though the FBI used this technique in identifying James Earl Ray, the suspected assassin of Martin Luther King.

By using such modern techniques, police departments could get away from their present reliance on pre-trial confessions. This is what the Supreme Court has restricted as an invasion of constitutional rights.

Hoover Says No

When the Bronx Congressman approached Attorney General Ramsey Clark with his idea for an institute of crime prevention, believe it or not, Clark said no. Reason was the opposition of J. Edgar Hoover, who wanted no competition with the FBI. Clark was already having enough troubles with Hoover and didn't want to antagonize him further.

Rep. Manny Celler, D-N. Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, also discouraged Scheuer because of Hoover's opposition. Rep. John Rooney, the Brooklyn Democrat, was even more vigorously opposed.

Finally Scheuer went to some of his Republican friends. He got immediate help from Robert McClory, R-Ill., later from Reps. Clark MacGregor, Minn., and William Cramer, Fla. Later, Attorney General Clark changed his mind and okayed the institute, and Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., was very helpful in the Senate.

So after three years of selling the idea of crime prevention as more important than crime conviction, Scheuer finally got his bill accepted by both Houses of Congress.

Note: Other sections of the anti-crime bill are so weak, such as the gun control bill, and so garbled, that the President is giving serious consideration to a veto.

Future Commitments

To Australia

During his secret talks with Australian Prime Minister John Gorton, the President urged him to help share responsibility for defending Southeast Asia. Specifically, he asked Gorton to leave Australian troops in Malaysia and Singapore after the British pull out.

Gorton replied bluntly that the Australians were willing to stay in Southeast Asia as long as the Americans did. But he asked a significant question. Would the United States come to their aid if the Australians were attacked on the Malay Peninsula? He noted that the Australian-New Zealand-United States defense pact contained an escape clause.

The President assured Gorton that as long as he remained in the White House the United States "will not read the fine print in the treaty."

To this Prime Minister Gorton noted that Johnson wasn't running for reelection. He asked whether the next President would give the same commitment. LBJ acknowledged that he couldn't speak for all the candidates, and he declined to make his own commitment public. He pointed out that discretion is sometimes the best policy in an election year.

Egyptians Are Grumbling Over Nasser and Wretched Poverty

By RAYMOND R. COFFEY

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

ROME— "The government is having a show to prove we have an air force again," the stubby, mustachioed Egyptian businessman said.

"So the Israelis can destroy it again," he added with a short and a so-called shrug.

The businessman was explaining why Cairo airport was closed to travelers: the government was staging a fly-past of the new fighter-bombers Russia has given it to replace the planes lost in the six-day war with Israel last June.

What he said was typical of the attitudes expressed by several Egyptians encountered during three days of wandering about this capital of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's regime. Despite all the noise Nasser and other Arab leaders are making about preserving until victory is achieved and not surrendering an inch of Arab soil, it seems a lot of people are not listening.

There is grumbling, an air of defeatism, hopelessness, winning self-pity. People seem more concerned with the poverty the last war drove them into than with taking on the Israelis again.

Some of what they say is downright subversive. On the way in from the airport, a cabdriver kept pointing out statues and monuments to assorted Egyptian kings and statesmen—all of them now dead and gone. Is there any statue of Nasser, he was asked. "Not yet—but we hope so soon," he grinned. "I think you know what I mean."

"We are fed up," said another man. "We want another war or finish no war. War, okay, we know we have it. Or finish is finish. But this constant, inconclusive friction is no good. I myself have lost 3,000 pounds (about $7,000) in lost income and savings. What cost 2 pounds before now cost 3 pounds."

The United Arab Republic has lost $100,000,000 (M) alone in tolls from the Suez Canal, closed since the war. The important tourist industry has been all but destroyed. People here see so few Americans now that their first assumption is that you are English. And they complain so freely to strangers that it seems a fair assumption that even more deeply and vocally bitter.

Nasser, one man complained, headquarters in the palace formerly occupied by King Farouk and also enters tains there "his friends like (Russian Premier Alexei) Kossygin and (Yugoslav president) Tito—these people who bring us nothing but poverty."

The three most visible ingredients of Egyptian life are desperate poverty, wretched squalor—and millions of flies feeding on it all. "What can we do, sir? What can we do?" asked one man, describing the new depths of poverty that have afflicted the country since the war.

While poverty dominates the conversations, there are also bitter complaints about the Israelis. "They are becoming more wild (aggressive) every day," one man said. "They get too much help from America or they would not be so wild."

Only when pressed do they get around to conceding that the Arab countries are getting even more help from Russia than Israel is from the United States and they conveniently forget the fact that the United States is also now resuming arms shipments to Arab Jordan.

The whole city seems to be walking around in a dispirited slouch. They may have an air force again. But they're a long way from recovering from the kick in the teeth the Israelis gave their morale.

DeGaulle-Never the Same

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

LONDON—No matter what happens in the French elections later this month, "Charles De Gaulle will never be the same again" in the opinion of British and other students of French affairs stationed in London.

The full effects of the French strikes and the accompanying political shakeup cannot yet be assessed. They will depend not only on the results of the elections but the long-range consequences of the important concessions made by the government in an effort to end the strikes in various industries.

That these consequences will be serious is indicated by some of the deals which have already been concluded: Wage increases ranging from 14 to 20 per cent for Paris region electricity workers, a 13 per cent hike for bus and subway workers.

But, say the experts, De Gaulle will never be able to erase the big blots he made in his copy book during the troubles. They cite four that they feel particularly reflect on his judgment and on any claim he may have to continued domination of French political life. They are:

1. The wholesale unrest among French workers and union leaders, which was revealed by strikes and occupation of mines and factories throughout the country. This was a repudiation of De Gaulle's policy of economic restraint.

He is now revealed as basically and sadly mistaken in opposing the pleas for increased economic growth repeatedly made by Prime Minister Georges Pompidou and Finance Minister Michel Debre.

By the same sign the star of Pompidou has risen. "If the Gaullist win the new elections the regime will be led by Pompidou, not De Gaulle," they say. "As an economist the 'old man' has had it."

2. He will never really live down the way in which he underestimated the seriousness of the situation when the student troubles began. By going off to Romania on an unnecessary junket he advertised his miscalculation.

3. Premature use of tough riot police against the students of the Sorbonne against the advice of the prefect of police was absolutely wrong. It was bound to be interpreted as a sign of callous indifference to honest complaints.

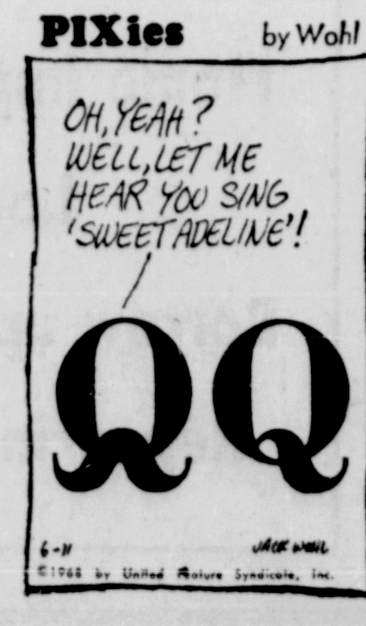

4. His radio broadcast to the nation after five days of inaction fell flat. The worst sycophants among the trained seals of the pro-Gaullists press couldn't pretend otherwise. Most ordinary Frenchmen felt that he had lost his touch and his power.

These are the views of seasoned experts who have never been known for anti-Gaullism. They have been reached after careful consideration.

Court Action Seen In Firemen Hassle

Kingston fire fighters have taken their wage dispute with the city to court. Papers are expected to be served Wednesday, according to Local 461 attorney, S. James Matthews.

Matthews told The Freeman Monday that papers will be served on all 13 aldermen, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo and City Treasurer Stan J. Petro Jr.

Today that papers will be served on all 13 aldermen, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo and City Treasurer Stan J. Petro Jr.

The action is being taken, according to Matthews, to compel the city to appropriate money in order to meet a contract negotiated between the firemen and the city commissioners in November of last year and ratified by the local Dec. 1.

In a news release today Local 461, Uniformed Fire Fighters Association President Robert Gollnick says, "Before taking this drastic step (court action) the fire fighters had tried to make a settlement with the mayor and Common Council by agreeing to cut their negotiated contract in half. The city fathers turned this down completely and would in no way make a settlement that would be fair to both parties."

Gollnick said members of Local 461 will distribute a "fact sheet" to explain their position in the controversy.

The firemen say they have a contract offered by the fire commissioners calling for an $1,100 salary increase for the chief, $1,000 for the deputies and $400 for the firemen. Garraghan offered them $350 across the board which was incorporated in this year's budget by the Common Council. The Council at its June 4 meeting, reaffirmed that $350 and took no action on any further raises.

Garraghan said today that he made an offer of $300 for the chief, $450 for the deputies and $400 for the firemen at a meeting with Thomas Fitzgerald, a representative of the State Public Employee Relations Board, last month. According to Garraghan he never received word from Fitzgerald who reportedly took Garraghan's offer over to the firemen.

Fitzgerald said today that he relayed the mayor's offer to the firemen who turned it down. He said he has been in contact with city corporation counsel, Aaron E. Klein on the matter.

Fitzgerald added that the state UEBB would continue its efforts to get the two parties together.

Clues Sought To Slaying Of Teacher

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (AP) — State Police combed Wellesley Island in the St. Lawrence River today for clues in the slaying of a 25-year-old, former school teacher described by one of her friends as "a nice person to get along with."

The body of Miss Irene J. Izak, daughter of a minister in Scranton, Pa., was found Monday on a blood-spattered embankment along Interstate Route 81, about a mile south of the customers' station at the U.S.-Canadian border.

Miss Izak had taught French at high schools in Binghamton and Rochester.

Miss Virginia Fitzmaurice, a Rochester school teacher and former roommate of Miss Izak, told reporters Miss Izak had visited her Monday.

Miss Fitzmaurice said Miss Izak recently received a master's degree at Canada's Laval University and was enroute to Montreal or Quebec for job interviews.

Miss Fitzmaurice said that her former roommate was "a nice person to get along with" and that she was "in a good frame of mind" when she left Rochester.

About four hours later, a state trooper stopped Miss Izak's automobile on Interstate Route 81 and warned her against speeding.

Another 20 minutes later, the trooper discovered her body in an area littered with beer cans.

Investigators said Miss Izak died of "massive head injuries" suffered when struck several times, apparently with a rock.

The woman was not molested sexually, the investigators said. Robbery was discounted as a motive.

Miss Izak taught in Binghamton from 1964 to 1966 and in Rochester in the 1966-67 school year. She was a graduate of Marywood College in Scranton and had studied at the Sorbonne in Paris.

She was the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Bohdan Izak.

Ellenville LHH Airport Ruling Due June 17th

The fate of the controversial LHH Airport in Ellenville may be decided on June 17 when a State Supreme Court Justice will rule on a petition for a permanent injunction against the airport.

The petition was brought against the airport owned by Louis and Harry Resnick by the Ellenville Central School Board of Education.

The action rose from a controversy stemming from the airport's relative proximity to school buildings.

A hearing was set for today, but the case was adjourned until the 17th.

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick was also part owner of the landing strip but withdrew ownership claims and presented his one-third parcel to his lawyers for settlement.

Harry Resnick has claimed that the landing strip facilities are a "perfectly" safe distance from the school.

Reportedly, the Avnet Corporation, owners of the Channel Master plant located directly in front of the landing strip, is "seriously considering" establishing a computer center in Ellenville primarily because of the existence of airport facilities.

The first landing on the new airstrip was made May 18 when Dr. Carl Heins of Monticello answered an emergency call at Ellenville Community Hospital nearby.

The Migrant Labor Panel Will Meet in County

The New York State inter-departmental committee on migrant labor will hold its first meeting in this area on Wednesday, June 12 at 7:30 p. m. at Ulster County Office Building.

Jack M. Sable, director of the New York State Office of Economic Opportunity and chairman of the committee on migrant labor, said his group aims to open lines of communication with all established local bodies that are concerned with problems confronting migrant workers.

It is planned that as a result of this meeting, greater service will be rendered to the migrants, he said.

The migrant labor committee's membership reflects the need for the increased emphasis by those agencies with major responsibilities for meeting basic human and social needs.

Dr. Sable is well-known in this region, being a native of Kingston. He said the inter-departmental committee recently was set up by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to undertake a thorough review of state programs to assist migrant workers and, through its members work to assure that programs are administered as effectively as possible to meet their needs. The committees will serve as a central information source.

Answer for Raftery After Posse Resignation

George E. Raftery of New Paltz, founder and captain of Ulster County Sheriff's Department mounted posse submitted his resignation recently in a sharply worded letter to Sheriff William B. Martin in which he charged misuse of the mounted posse.

The letter of resignation brought a rebuke today from Albert E. Milliken, posse secretary, who charged that the Raftery letter contained "strange distortions of the truth."

Milliken in his statement addressed to Raftery said: "Your resignation from the Sheriff's Posse, which was delivered by you verbally at the meeting of June 3, was accepted by the membership that same night."

"Since then you have chosen to submit to various local newspapers a letter directed by you to the sheriff of Ulster County, the contents of which not only tend to discredit the posse, but are strange distortions of the truth."

"To mention two of them, the posse was not started by you, it was started by Stewart Miller two years ago. It has never, in any way been politically inclined. In fact there are probably as many Republicans as Democrats in the membership."

"Your statement at the meeting of June 3 that you did not attend the mounted drills because you did not like to ride a horse would have been sufficient reason in itself to disqualify you from membership in the organization," Milliken concluded.

Raftery in his letter said his sole purpose for forming the mounted posse about one year ago was to have an organization mounted on horseback to aid the people of the county and assist in emergency type police work. He listed the various aid to the public as assistance in finding lost children in wooded areas and other police work activities.

He continued, "Much to my disappointment, the organization has far from done so, but instead has become an enlarged and glorified production to participate in social events, as parades and picnics."

Greer quotes Laverne thusly: "I have reviewed your letter (Greer's) of May 12 and I am completely satisfied that you have done all that is humanly possible to avoid any serious problem with reference to fire service in your area. My contacts have told me that yours is probably the most perfect case of 'extreme provocation' that they have ever seen. While I'm not sure what we can do to alleviate your situation, your letter is being made part of the file so that we can follow through."

Under the Taylor Law strikes by public employees are allowable under the "extreme provocation" mentioned by Laverne.

Local 461's president, Robert Gollnick and Greer are leaving today for the New York State Fire Fighters Association Convention, at the Concord Hotel. A resolution will be submitted to the delegates requesting new legislation that would amend or add sections to the Taylor Law.

This new section would "establish penalties to be applied against public employers who violate any of the provisions of this law." Another change requested, will be to provide that the decisions of impartial mediators or fact finders would become equally binding upon both the employer and the employees.

Local 461's officers will, in the very near future, request the governor's office to set up a meeting with the chairman of the State Public Employment Relations Board, Professor Robert Helsby, to determine what the state's position will be in this show of utter disregard of the law by the officials of the city," Greer said.

State Senator Backs Firemen In Wage Battle

Hugh Greer, secretary of Local 461, Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, today released the contents of a letter to the association from State Senator Thomas Laverne, chairman of the Senate Committee on Labor and Industry, in which Laverne supports the firemen in their wage dispute with the city.

Greer quotes Laverne thusly: "I have reviewed your letter (Greer's) of May 12 and I am completely satisfied that you have done all that is humanly possible to avoid any serious problem with reference to fire service in your area. Rolison Gives Endorsement to Fish Candidacy

Today State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. of Dutchess County made public his endorsement of Hamilton Fish Jr., candidate for Congress in the 28th District. "I am convinced that Ham Fish is the best qualified candidate."

"He is well qualified, both academically and from the standpoint of experience. He has experience in foreign affairs, gathered as a member of the foreign service, including service as vice-consul."

"He has also been truly interested in the community he lives in and seeks to represent. His community involvement gives Ham Fish the background for understanding the problems of the district. He will make a great congressman," said Senator Rolison.

Commenting, Fish said, "I certainly appreciate the confidence that Senator Rolison expresses. I feel that with his support and that of thousands of others, I will win the primary and go on to win in November."

Milliken in his statement addressed to Raftery said:

"Your resignation from the Sheriff's Posse, which was delivered by you verbally at the meeting of June 3, was accepted by the membership that same night."

"Since then you have chosen to submit to various local newspapers a letter directed by you to the sheriff of Ulster County, the contents of which not only tend to discredit the posse, but are strange distortions of the truth."

"To mention two of them, the posse was not started by you, it was started by Stewart Miller two years ago. It has never, in any way been politically inclined. In fact there are probably as many Republicans as Democrats in the membership. "Your statement at the meeting of June 3 that you did not attend the mounted drills because you did not like to ride

State Senator Backs Firemen In Wage Battle

Hugh Greer, secretary of Local 461, Kingston Uniformed Fire Fighters Association, today released the contents of a letter to the association from State Senator Thomas Laverne, chairman of the Senate Committee on Labor and Industry, in which Laverne supports the firemen in their wage dispute with the city.

Greer quotes Laverne thusly: "I have reviewed your letter (Greer's) of May 12 and I am completely satisfied that you have done all that is humanly possible to avoid any serious problem with reference to fire service in your area. My contacts have told me that yours is probably the most perfect case of 'extreme provocation' that they have ever seen. While I'm not sure what we can do to alleviate your situation, your letter is being made part of the file so that we can follow through."

Under the Taylor Law strikes by public employees are allowable under the "extreme provocation" mentioned by Laverne.

Local 461's president, Robert Gollnick and Greer are leaving today for the New York State Fire Fighters Association Convention, at the Concord Hotel. A resolution will be submitted to the delegates requesting new legislation that would amend or add sections to the Taylor Law.

This new section would "establish penalties to be applied against public employers who violate any of the provisions of this law." Another change requested, will be to provide that the decisions of impartial mediators or fact finders would become equally binding upon both the employer and the employees.

Local 461's officers will, in the very near future, request the governor's office to set up a meeting with the chairman of the State Public Employment Relations Board, Professor Robert Helsby, to determine what the state's position will be in this show of utter disregard of the law by the officials of the city," Greer said.

Rolison Gives Endorsement to Fish Candidacy

Today State Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. of Dutchess County made public his endorsement of Hamilton Fish Jr., candidate for Congress in the 28th District. "I am convinced that Ham Fish is the best qualified candidate."

"He is well qualified, both academically and from the standpoint of experience. He has experience in foreign affairs, gathered as a member of the foreign service, including service as vice-consul."

"He has also been truly interested in the community he lives in and seeks to represent. His community involvement gives Ham Fish the background for understanding the problems of the district. He will make a great congressman," said Senator Rolison.

Commenting, Fish said, "I certainly appreciate the confidence that Senator Rolison expresses. I feel that with his support and that of thousands of others, I will win the primary and go on to win in November."

Clues Sought To Slaying Of Teacher

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N.Y. (AP) — State Police combed

Wellesley Island in the St. Lawrence River today for clues in the slaying of a 25-year-old former school teacher described by one of her friends as "a nice person to get along with."

The body of Miss Irene J. Izak, daughter of a minister in Scranton, Pa., was found Monday on a blood-spattered embankment along Interstate Route 81, about a mile south of the customs' station at the U.S.-Canadian border.

Miss Izak had taught French at high schools in Binghamton and Rochester.

Miss Virginia Fitzmaurice, a Rochester school teacher and former roommate of Miss Izak, told reporters Miss Izak had visited her Monday.

Miss Fitzmaurice said Miss Izak recently received a master's degree at Canada's Laval University and was enroute to Montreal or Quebec for job interviews.

Miss Fitzmaurice said that her former roommate was "a nice person to get along with" and that she was "in a good frame of mind" when she left Rochester.

About four hours later, a state trooper stopped Miss Izak's automobile on Interstate Route 81 and warned her against speeding.

Another 20 minutes later, the trooper discovered her body in an area littered with beer cans. Investigators said Miss Izak died of "massive head injuries" suffered when struck several times, apparently with a rock.

The woman was not molested sexually, the investigators said. Robbery was discounted as a motive.

Miss Izak taught in Binghamton from 1964 to 1966 and in Rochester in the 1966-67 school year. She was a graduate of Marywood College in Scranton and had studied at the Sorbonne in Paris.

She was the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Bohdan Izak.

Highland Youth Wins Safety Essay Contest

A Highland High School senior, David Franz Peters, took home the first prize in the Kingston Safety Essay Contest. The contest was sponsored by the Kingston Safety Council and the Kingston School District. Peters' essay, "Safety is a way of life," was selected as the winner. He is a member of the National Honor Society and the Future Teachers of America. He plans to attend college in the fall.

The contest was open to all students in the Kingston School District. It was held in conjunction with the National Safety Week. The winning essay was judged by a panel of experts. Peters' essay was praised for its insight and clarity. It emphasized the importance of safety in everyday life and the role of the individual in maintaining a safe environment.

What Safety Means to Me
Safety is a way of life. It is a way of thinking and acting that keeps us from getting hurt. It is a way of life that is always with us, whether we are at home, at school, or on the street.

Paltz Commencement Some Protests Warning

In the only Commencement speech he will make this year, Dr. Samuel B. Gould, Chancellor of the State University of New York, told a graduating class of 1,000 students at State University College, New Paltz, Sunday afternoon that students demand for more student participation in campus affairs is "healthy and constructive."

But he said there is a type of student protest, led by a much smaller student group, that is not virtuous or one of our democratic form of government or in the university itself, that is disruptive and destructive. He said that this type of protest is a warning to the university to change its policies and procedures.

He said that the university must be careful not to become a victim of the same kind of protest that it is trying to help. He said that the university must be able to stand up to the protesters and not be intimidated by them.

The speaker cautioned against withdrawal or hesitancy in offering help to remedy injustice, ignorance, and that "discourse of the body and soul."

He said that the university must act swiftly and firmly against illegal actions and situations interfering with the productive functioning of the academic community. It is more important to consider what the University "can and must do" to open doors of communication among its constituencies.

He called for the University to reexamine the "true worth of its academic patterns so that the campus is assured, and to develop within its curricula a synthesis of theory and empirical research."

Speaking of student protest, Dr. Gould said there is a "rejection by a large body of students of much that is being taught, together with how it is being taught."

The letter, forwarded to Phil Jordan, board president is as follows:

Not Critical: Barnard

Blaiberg Has Hepatitis

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, has suffered a "relapse" from a liver complication and fluid around his heart, spokesmen for Groote Schuur hospital said today.

The condition of the 58-year-old retired South African dentist is "causing doctors some concern," a hospital bulletin said. Sources at the hospital said Blaiberg's pulse rate had weakened.

Members of the surgical team of Dr. Christiaan Barnard, the pioneer South African heart transplant surgeon, rushed to the hospital. Barnard, himself, was in London and he scheduled a flight back to Cape Town today.

Routine Tests Scheduled

Blaiberg, who received the heart of a 24-year-old factory worker Jan. 2, had entered the hospital June 1 for routine medical progress tests. He was in good condition at the time and drove himself to the hospital.

The spokesmen said the exact cause of the liver complication was not known. They said Blaiberg also had "pericardial effusion" — fluid around the heart.

In London, Barnard said Blaiberg has hepatitis—inflammation of the liver—but said his condition is "not critical." He added, however, "I am disappointed that this has happened but I have not given up hope."

Six of the world's 21 heart transplant patients still are living. In addition to Blaiberg, two are in Houston, Tex., one in France, one in England and one in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Earlier hospital spokesmen had said Blaiberg might have pneumonia. But the hospital bulletin issued later in the day made no mention of pneumonia.

Return Home Delayed

Blaiberg had been scheduled to return home last Friday but stayed on in the hospital ostensibly because his wife, Eileen, had a cold and doctors feared infection. Today Dr. B. M. Nel, superintendent of the hospital out-patient block, confirmed reports a member of the transplant team had been sleeping in Blaiberg's suite. He described Blaiberg's complications as "a setback."

Blaiberg received the heart of Clive Haupt who died of a stroke at a beach New Year's Day.

It was Barnard's second heart transplant operation. He performed the world's first in December upon Louis Washansky, a Cape Town grocer, who died 18 days later.

Meanwhile, Frederick West, 45, Britain's first heart transplant patient, fought for his life today against a chest infection which attacked him over the weekend.

National Heart Hospital said a slight improvement West showed Monday night "has been maintained."

West's condition took a turn for the worse early Monday. But Monday night West's son Michael said his father seemed a little better.

West received the heart of a construction worker May 3.

Severe Weather Hits Midwest; East Gets Rain

By United Press International

Severe weather buffeted the Midwest Monday night, as funnel clouds were sighted from Nebraska to Wisconsin. No injuries were reported, but high winds and hailstorms unroofed buildings, felled trees and temporarily cut off electricity to several communities.

Scattered thundershowers under the command of Chief Richard McMullen, who fought the flames under handicap through the lack of sufficient water.

The fire was discovered shortly before 7:45 p. m. and firemen were at the scene until about 1:30 a. m. today. The house was completely destroyed by the fire of undetermined origin.

Jack J. Cutrone of Marlboro, a Middleboro barber parlor operator, owned the house. He said the large dwelling had been built in the 1880s and had been unoccupied for many years. Cutrone said vandals had caused extensive damage to the house which had ceilings 12 feet high.

The house was situated in the Hudson Terrace section of Marlboro and was formerly owned by a family named Millard, operators of a lumber business in Wappingers Falls. The dwelling had been known to area residents as the Old Mahler home, he said.

Cutrone said he had no insurance on the structure and he could give no monetary value of the loss.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India charged Monday Red China had given guerrilla training to Naga tribesmen whose rebellion in hill country of northeastern India has taken the lives of 200 Indian troops and Nagas.

U.N. Assembly Moves Toward Nuclear Pact

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United Nations General Assembly moved today toward an expected quick approval of a long-negotiated treaty against the spread of nuclear weapons.

The joint U.S.-Soviet draft for a nonproliferation treaty won commendation of the General Assembly's main political committee Monday by a vote of 92-4, with 22 nations not voting.

The treaty will forbid non-nuclear nations from developing or acquiring nuclear weapons and those who already have them from sharing them.

The treaty was expected to pass after General Assembly acts on another controversial but unrelated issue—an African resolution to permit the U.N. Security Council to force South Africa to give up South West Africa, South Africa has ruled the former German colony for 50 years.

General Assembly approval of the nuclear treaty is only a preliminary step. The pact becomes operative when it has been signed and ratified by the three principal nuclear powers—Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States and 40 other nations.

The treaty further commits its nuclear members to share peaceful aspects of nuclear technology with other members of the treaty, including furnishing nuclear explosives if needed for engineering projects.

The treaty is the product of four years of negotiations and 380 meetings by disarmament negotiators at Geneva, and further revisions after the joint U.S.-Soviet draft was referred to the U.N. last March.

Revenue Head Urges Approval Of Measures

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The nation's chief tax-collector urges swift congressional approval of two measures sought by President Johnson — an income-tax surcharge and tighter gun controls.

Sheldon S. Cohen, head of the Internal Revenue Department, was here Monday to inspect the district tax office.

Cohen told a reporter the proposed 10 per cent increase in personal income taxes is "an economic necessity."

The stability of the economy dictated a tax cut in 1964, Cohen said, and it now dictates a tax boost.

Congressional leaders have agreed to the surcharge provided federal spending is trimmed by $6 billion.

On gun control, Cohen said stringent laws would not stop crime but would "cut down on the incidence of death by guns."

"There's just too much shooting," Cohen added.

They said he apparently fell into the pool after getting through a fence that surrounded it.

His mother, Mrs. Nancy McChesney pulled the youngster from the water but was unable to revive him.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Did you ever wonder where, when and by whom Father's Day was initiated? In 1910, Mrs. John Dodd started the custom in Spokane, Washington. A quarter of a century later, in 1936, a national Father's Day Committee was formed with headquarters in New York. Prominent men have through the years been chosen as "Father of the Year."

Our selection this year, and every year, is and has been plural. These men are the typical "Dear Old Dad" seen everywhere, known everywhere, in every community. There are many millions of them. In their circle of family and friends, these typical fathers deserve the distinction of being father of the year just as much, and perhaps more so, than the nationally publicized distinguished men. These "Dear Old Dads" have devoted a life time to the needs of their families. As a loyal employee or as a considerate, thoughtful employer, these "Dear Old Dads" have shown, by example, how to face realities; how to have humble trust in God. We salute every one of them. They deserve "their day" more often than once a year!.....

NAACP Meets; Sets Discussion With Garraghan

Ulster County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People met last night and heard a report from its president, Everett Hodge, on his trip to the state convention in Syracuse last weekend.

The group also agreed to conduct a study on housing conditions in Kingston. Hodge wrote a letter to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan asking for a meeting to discuss city plans in the event of any disorders this summer.

The meeting is set for 8 p. m. at Hodge's home at 21 Franklin Street. In writing Garraghan, Hodge says that his group believes an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Garraghan replied today that he will cooperate with the group but asks for positive thinking in dealing with the problems of all the citizens.

Said Garraghan, "There may be a lack of leadership in the federal government but not in my office. I spend most of my time working on human relations and youth problems and know there is considerable improvement."

No Cooperation

A man, who was identified as Marshall Vourne and who said he resided in South Fallsburgh, was discharged from Kingston Hospital on Monday. Detectives questioned him and other men in connection with a murder. Vourne had been assaulted and beaten shortly before midnight last Friday, but the man reportedly refused to cooperate with investigators and would not name his assailant or assailants. The incident occurred on lower Broadway. Police said no stabbing was involved as rumored.

NEW ADVENTURE

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, a doughty explorer and mountain climber at age 69, was undergoing a new adventure Monday, learning to adjust to an implanted cardiac device which makes his heart beat faster. A spokesman who disclosed Douglas had been equipped with the cardiac "pacemaker" at Walter Reed Army Hospital June 4 reported the jurist was doing well. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Hit and Run

A hit and run incident was reported to the Sheriff's Department early Sunday in which a yellow-gold Mustang reportedly rammed into the rear of a 1965 sedan at the intersection of Routes 375 and 28.

Alfred F. Goeller of St. James Court said he stopped his car at the stop sign on Route 375 at the Route 28 intersection and the Mustang hit him in the rear damaging his car. The Mustang left the scene heading south toward Kingston.

Goeller said there is probable damage to the left front fender and a broken headlight on the Mustang. Deputy William Slack investigated.

Postwar Building Boom Anticipated

Q—I feel that the United States will see a massive building boom in urban areas. Do you agree? What building material stocks do you favor?

—R.E.

A—Your assumption is correct, but the big question is when? Spraying building costs may cause a time lag in translating the undisputed need into demand. Added to steadily increasing costs of labor, land and materials are high mortgage rates—unparalleled since 1929. These higher rates of interest not only affect costs of mortgages but also the amount of money available for mortgages.

Interest rates on deposits in savings and loans associations—one of the major underwriters of home construction—are limited by law. Thus, when higher yields are offered elsewhere, there is an outflow of savings deposits and a consequent scarcity of funds for new mortgages.

However, peaceful settlement of the Vietnam conflict with the resultant decline in military spending should see an easing of the tight money situation. A boom in residential construction would then seem to be all but inevitable.

Boise Cascade, Georgia-Pacific and U.S. Plywood-Champion, all forest-products companies, received one-third to one-half of their revenues from paper products. In addition to lumber, plywood and paper products, each company has, through acquisition, diversified its area of operation, thereby strengthening its respective industry position.

Two other companies, National Gypsum and U.S. Gypsum, are benefiting from the growing use of gypsum in the building trade. Gypsum is relatively inexpensive, making it particularly suitable for low-cost housing—the area of our greatest need. Although the price-earnings ratio on each of these five issues is high, three are below the levels attained in the early '60s.

I might add that the latest jump in interest rates combined with a shortage of skilled labor could cause a slowdown in housing starts in the months ahead. This in turn could be reflected in lower share price levels of representative building stocks. Therefore, delaying purchases for several months might prove advantageous.

Trowbridge Starts New Selling Career

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Now almost fully recovered from a heart ailment that forced him to resign his 16-hour-a-day job as secretary of commerce, Alexander Trowbridge, Jr. has embarked on a new career selling professional management.

"I note a tremendous clamor for assistance in management development by city and state governments, by educational institutions and others," said Trowbridge in an interview. "It strikes me as an area of need we can fill to a degree."

Trowbridge, 38, is in his third week as president of the American Management Association, a nonprofit, 54,000-member association of individuals and organizations seeking to discover, develop and apply management techniques.

Formidable Task

The task is a bit more formidable than it seems, for a stubborn stereotype stands in the way. For many years, it seems, the word "management" has been identified only with business, and its broader definition as "the organization of human affairs in any endeavor" has been overlooked.

Trowbridge feels that religion, education, the home, medicine,

Man's Death

Accidental

Says Coroner

A verdict of accidental death due to electric shock has been reported by Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, in the sudden death of Paul Niosi, 43, of Napanoch, which occurred Saturday night at the VAW United Aluminum Works of America, Inc., on Channel Master Road in Ellenville.

The verdict was rendered by the coroner after statements were taken from other workers at the plant, which indicated Niosi's death by electrocution was accidental.

State Police Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said Niosi apparently was trying to connect two 440-volt extension cords in the plant at the time of his death. He was rushed to Ellenville Community Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival by two physicians.

Participating in the investigation with Chipp were BCI investigators Michael Mahoney and Michael Bonney of the Ellenville substation of State Police.

NAACP Meets; Sets Discussion With Garraghan

Ulster County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People met last night and heard a report from its president, Everett Hodge, on his trip to the state convention in Syracuse last weekend.

The group also agreed to conduct a study on housing conditions in Kingston. Hodge wrote a letter to Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan asking for a meeting with the mayor on Thursday to discuss city plans in the event of any disorders this summer.

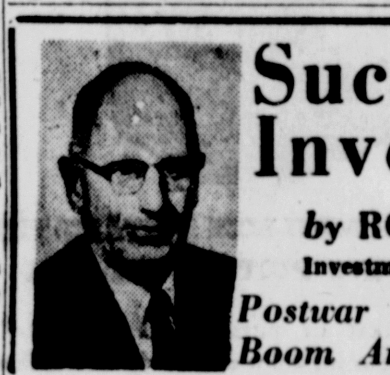

The meeting is set for 8 p. m. at Hodge's home at 21 Franklin Street. In writing Garraghan, Hodge says that his group believes an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Garraghan replied today that he will cooperate with the group but asks for positive thinking in dealing with the problems of all the citizens.

Said Garraghan, "There may be a lack of leadership in the federal government but not in my office. I spend most of my time working on human relations and youth problems and know there is considerable improvement."

No Cooperation

A man, who was identified as Marshall Youme and who said he resided in South Fallsburgh, was discharged from Kingston Hospital on Monday. Detectives questioned him and other men in connection with a report Youme had been assaulted and beaten shortly before midnight last Friday, but the man reportedly refused to cooperate with investigators and would not name his assailant or assailants. The incident occurred on lower Broadway. Police said no stabbing was involved as rumored.

Postwar Building Boom Anticipated

Q—I feel that the United States will see a massive building boom in urban areas. Do you agree? What building material stocks do you favor?

A—R.B.

A—Your assumption is correct, but the big question is when? Spraying building costs may cause a time lag in translating the undisputed need into demand. Added to steadily increasing costs of labor, land and materials are high mortgage rates—unparalleled since 1929. These higher rates of interest not only affect costs of mortgages but also the amount of money available for mortgages. Interest rates on deposits in savings and loans associations—one of the major underwriters of home construction—are limited by law. Thus, when higher yields are offered elsewhere, there is an outflow of savings deposits and a consequent scarcity of funds for new mortgages.

However, peaceful settlement of the Vietnam conflict with the resultant decline in military spending should see an easing of the tight money situation. A boom in residential construction would then seem to be all but inevitable.

Boise Cascade, Georgia-Pacific and U.S. Plywood Champion, all forest-products companies, received one-third to one-half of their revenues from paper products. In addition to lumber, plywood and paper products, each company has, through acquisition, diversified its area of operation, thereby strengthening its respective industry position.

Two other companies, National Gypsum and U.S. Gypsum, are benefiting from the growing use of gypsum by the building trade. Gypsum is relatively inexpensive, making it particularly suitable for low-cost housing—the area of our greatest need. Although the price-earnings ratio on each of these five issues is high, three are below the levels attained in the early '60s.

I might add that the latest jump in interest rates combined with a shortage of skilled labor could cause a slowdown in housing starts in the months ahead. This in turn could be reflected in lower share price levels of representative building stocks. Therefore, delaying purchases for several months might prove advantageous.

NEW ADVENTURE — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, a doughty explorer and mountain climber at age 69, was undergoing a new adventure Monday, learning to adjust to an implanted cardiac device which makes his heart beat faster. A spokesman who disclosed Douglas had been equipped with the cardiac "pacemaker" at Walter Reed Army Hospital June 4 reported the jurist was doing well. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Hit and Run

A hit and run incident was reported to the Sheriff's Department early Sunday in which a yellow-gold Mustang reportedly rammed into the rear of a 1965 sedan at the intersection of Routes 375 and 28.

Alfred F. Goeller of St. James Court said he stopped his car at the stop sign on Route 375 at the Route 28 intersection and the Mustang hit him in the rear damaging his car. The Mustang left the scene heading south toward Kingston.

Goeller said there is probable damage to the left front fender and a broken headlight on the Mustang. Deputy William Slack investigated.

Trowbridge Starts New Selling Career

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Now almost fully recovered from a heart ailment that forced him to resign his 16-hour-a-day job as secretary of commerce, Alexander Trowbridge, Jr., has embarked on a new career selling professional management.

"I note a tremendous clamor for assistance in management development by city and state governments, by educational institutions and others," said Trowbridge in an interview. "It strikes me as an area of need we can fill to a degree."

Trowbridge, 38, is in his third week as president of the American Management Association, a nonprofit, 54,000-member association of individuals and organizations seeking to discover, develop and apply management techniques.

Formidable Task

The task is a bit more formidable than it seems, for a stubborn stereotype stands in the way. For many years, it seems, the word "management" has been identified only with business, and its broader definition as "the organization of human affairs in any endeavor" has been overlooked.

Trowbridge feels that religion, education, the home, medicine, labor, government—name almost any area—can benefit from learning the techniques of long range planning, organizing and carrying out plans to attain objectives.

Although it is not necessary to go outside the business community to find poor management—Wall Street, for example, is smothered in paper—there is little question that a great area of need has arisen in endeavors other than business.

Educators and government officials, for instance, fret about too much administrative detail. Clergymen complain that their daily duties cannot be handled in 24 hours. Taxpayers are angry over inefficiency in city management.

Trowbridge's hope is to find the expertise in these areas and make it available to those who need it, mostly through AMA's usual channels of publications, seminars and classes.

As a result of his plans to broaden the knowledge of management, Trowbridge estimates the AMA will grow swiftly, doubling its $25 million a year income in four or five years, assuming that the high quality of its work can be maintained.

Into Foreign Fields

This also will carry AMA more into foreign fields, where a deep and growing interest in American management methods exists, especially since the opening of the so-called technology gap.

The resulting competition with American firms wouldn't necessarily hurt this country. Instead, it could produce greater commerce among nations, with benefits to all. American business, Trowbridge feels, can take care of itself.

Another area of special concern for the AMA and Trowbridge is the part of private enterprise in the public sector, of solving the problems of education and urban blight and pollution by profit-making methods.

Innocent Plea in Death of Girl

Cpl. Lewis B. Benjamin, 21 of Mt. Marion, indicted Thursday in the Good Friday slaying of a 19-year-old Town of Saugerties girl entered a plea of innocent through his attorney G. Thomas Rea Jr., at arraignment in County Court before Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The case was adjourned for motions to June 26 and the defendant was remanded to County Jail. Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon appeared for the prosecution.

The Saugerties serviceman was charged with two counts of murder and is being held in connection with the death of Brenda Jean Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Benson of High Woods. The girl's nude body was found down an embankment at the edge of a wooded area near Glasco Turnpike early Good Friday morning by two sheriff's deputies. A short interval later the deputies, Marshall Canosa and Barton Kniffen, saw Benjamin walking across the Viking Lounge parking area from the direction of Miss Benson's parked car.

County Coroner Henry S. Hartley in his preliminary report said that death was due to strangulation.

Other Cases

Charles J. Saccoman was assigned as attorney in the case of Ernest C. Bodie, 21 of Hunter Street, and a plea of innocent was entered in the defendant's behalf at arraignment. Judge Mino adjourned the case to June 19 at 11 a.m. to permit Saccoman to familiarize himself with the particulars and the indictment. Bodie was charged by the grand jury with attempt to commit a crime, sexual abuse, first degree and assault, first degree in connection with the alleged attack April 5 on a 53-year-old Town of Esopus woman in the vicinity of Kaufman's Pond. The defendant was remanded to County Jail.

Russell L. Robinson, 17 of Ellenville was arraigned and Frank Spada assigned as counsel. An innocent plea was entered in the defendant's behalf.

Robinson's case was adjourned to June 19 at 11 a.m. He was charged in the grand jury indictment with burglary, third degree, and criminal trespass, second degree, in connection with a break-in April 16 at Busy Bee Restaurant, Ellenville. The defendant was remanded to county jail.

Burrell was charged in the indictment with burglary, third degree, and criminal trespass, second, and petit larceny. Police charged the defendant trespassing on the premises of the Busy Bee Restaurant, Ellenville, on April 20. Grand Larceny Indictment — Albert J. York, 40, of Middletown was assigned Frank Spada as counsel at arraignment and his case was adjourned to June 19 at 11 a.m. He was charged in the indictment with grand larceny, third degree, in connection with the alleged theft of a $633 check belonging to Raymond Sosler drawn on First National Bank of Ellenville. Thruway troopers said the arrest resulted from a shooting incident April 7 in which the defendant is charged with firing a .22 pistol into a passing car, apparently missing the occupants.

James Armstrong, 16 of Rock Street, Kingston in a hearing last week on violation of probation, was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory for a term not to exceed three years. He was represented by Ernest E. Schirmer. Armstrong was on probation from a previous charge when arrested in May with Stephen A. Vaughn, 16 of Saugerties following a high speed chase in a stolen vehicle.

The fleeing pair was finally apprehended by Ulster County Sheriff's Deputies John Pavlak and Charles Daley, and Leeds State Troopers G. E. Davis and E. E. La Plante.

The chase started on Glasco Turnpike near High Woods and continued through the northern and western portion of Saugerties and Woodstock and ended at Rip Van Winkle Bridge almost an hour later. Six law enforcement agencies were involved.

Rosendale Health Clinic

A child health conference, conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, will be held at the town clerk's office, Rosendale, Thursday, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunization for smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio.

Well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease are not for the care of the sick child. Children under the regular health supervision of their own physician are not admitted unless the physician desires this service to be taken over by the Child Health Conference. In this manner, duplication of service is avoided, facilitating the work of the private physician.

In order to avoid overcrowded clinics, an appointment is required for admission to these clinics. Your public health nurse may be contacted for an appointment at the Stone Ridge Health Center between 9 and 10 a.m., Monday through Friday.

NEW YORK (AP) — A turn-in-your-guns movement has started in the nation in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

And there have been calls from public officials, groups and individuals—for stronger gun-control legislation at federal, state and city levels.

"I don't feel like killing anything any more," said Alan E. Schoening as he turned in two hunting guns to police in Lancaster, Pa. "Enough people have been shot now," he said. "I want to give you these guns so you can destroy them. I hope this gesture will encourage others to do the same."

Chains React

A chain of discount stores in Columbus, Ohio, said it would stop selling guns and turned over its stock of small arms, hand guns, ammunition and related items to the police department. J-Mart president Marty Rosen said he took the action "to remove the possibility of supplying anyone with the means to cause bodily harm, inadvertently or intentionally, not only to our dedicated public leaders, but to anyone."

An Indiana-based chain, Wonderland stores, discontinued the sale of ammunition. It stopped the sale of guns two years ago. The store president, Sanford Friedman, said the ammunition sale was being stopped "to help preserve public safety and sanity."

In Dallas, store owner E. O. Crawford discontinued the sale of toy guns the day Robert Kennedy died. "We teach our children love of a gun and love of killing by giving them a toy gun as soon as they are able to walk," he said.

John E. Fletcher of Denver urged gun owners to take "all firearms in your possession to the steps of the state capitol next Sunday (Father's Day) to be destroyed and disposed of."

He said the gesture would be "a sign of our intention to kill no more... and as a fitting remembrance to a fallen martyr—Robert F. Kennedy."

Asks Strong Law

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts said he will tell his colleagues in the New England Conference that strong gun controls are long overdue. The conference will meet in Stowe, Vt., June 27, and the issue is expected to come up then.

Volpe, chairman of the National Governor's Conference, plans to propose tighter gun laws when that group meets next month in Cincinnati.

A Gallup Poll report, released

Sunday in Princeton, N.J., said a special survey conducted on the day that Sen. Kennedy was shot found that the public advocates registration of all firearms as the best way to curb such violence.

Urges Jail Term

A letter appeared in the Miami Herald, signed by a man who called himself "an avid owner and user of guns," and urging a 90-day jail sentence for possession of any firearm. "I know this means ending the sport of hunting," he wrote, "but our first obligation must be to mankind and the perpetuation of society."

Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco proclaimed the seven days beginning July 4 a "Amnesty Week," and asked all citizens to turn in their guns—with no questions asked. Last Friday, Alioto had urged a city gun control law "with teeth in it."

Not all the action came from adults. A group of junior high and high school students in University City, Mo., formed an organization called Students for Action Committee to work to eliminate gun sales.

"The adults don't do anything," said Sharon Lieberman, a member of the group. "They mourn and say they'll do something and then they seem to forget."

Local Arsenal

Circuit Judge Max Raskin of Milwaukee urged passage of a law under which firearms would have to be drawn out of a local arsenal, somewhat like books out of a library. Raskin said the borrower would sign out the weapon, state his purpose for needing it and sign it back in after a specified time.

The crime-control bill which the U.S. House of Representatives passed Thursday includes a ban on mail-order sales of handguns, but President Johnson has asked for even stronger curbs. He urged the legislators to reinstate an original provision of the bill—banning the mail-order sale of rifles and shotguns as well—and to insert a new provision prohibiting the sale of rifles, shotguns and handguns to anyone under 18.

ULSTER BOCES HONORED — Third prize honors in the regional Chrysler-Plymouth trouble shooting contest were won by a two-man team from Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services, according to Michael Aronica, director of vocational education. David Hurt Jr., (L) of Highland Central School and Stewart Smith (C) of Wallkill Central School are shown with Rudolph Brodsky, (R) instructor, holding the trophy presented to BOCES by Chrysler-Plymouth Corp. The two boys competed at Valley Stream, L. I. recently against 27 teams representing as many schools in the metropolitan area. Smith and Hurt were each awarded a set of automotive test equipment. Their sponsors were Young's Motors of Milton. Dist. Supt. Henry Hopper expressing the gratitude of the BOCES said, "Our boys deserve a lot of credit, since they competed against students enrolled in 3-year programs while ours is a 2-year sequence. Last year our boys placed first and went on to the national contest where they placed ninth in the nation. Rudolph Brodsky, their teacher, should also be commended for preparing the team."

Peace Corps Placement Test in Kingston the 15th

Area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 15, at the Main Post Office, 90 Cornell Street.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test, which takes about an hour and a half, to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive—an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

Twelve thousand Peace Corps volunteers are currently serving in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands, working with the people of those nations in self-help projects in agriculture, health, education, and community action. Many more volunteers are needed for projects which will begin this summer and fall.

Mosquitoes and Libraries' Help On Agenda for County Legislature

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

County-wide mosquito control and a study to improve facilities in the libraries within the county will highlight the agenda of the Thursday night meeting of the County Legislature at 8 p.m. in the legislator's rooms.

A resolution to be introduced by Legislator Joseph Martorana, R-9th District asks for a study of a county-wide mosquito control by dusting or spraying and elimination of breeding areas. The resolution noted that 50 per cent of the cost could be reimbursed by the state.

A joint resolution offered by Brian White, 9th District and William West, Woodstock, both Republicans calls for the appointment of a committee to study possible improvements of facilities in various libraries throughout the county.

Minority Leader Roger W. Mabie, D-7th District has filed a resolution asking approval for the reappointment of Arthur B. Ewig as a member of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission. The new term is for six years.

Legislator Philip H. Davis, R-11th District has filed a resolution asking for the annual appropriation of $5,500 to the Ulster County Agriculture Society to provide funds for the operation of the County Fair at New Paltz in August.

Several resolutions have been filed in behalf of county departments asking permission for personnel to attend out-of-town conferences and authorizing application for reimbursement of expenses for travel and lodging.

The Veterans Affairs Committee headed by Legislator Martorana and including William West, R-Woodstock; Frederick Pizuto, R-9th District; Orrie Riehl, D-Kingston, and Richard Thornton, D-Saugerties, filed a resolution criticizing a reported violation of the local law controlling the operation of business and special holiday advertising on Memorial Day.

The resolution notes there was one violation of the local law on Memorial Day. The company reportedly had its place of business open on Memorial Day for a preview of its forthcoming sale although no business was transacted during the day.

The resolution calls for the County Legislature to go on record deploring the violation.

Saugerties Legislators Paul Brazier, D; C. Freeman Lasher, R; Clifford Snyder, R, and Richard Thornton, D, filed a resolution honoring Cpl. Paul Lewis, 19 of Saugerties, who made the supreme sacrifice in Vietnam recently. Cpl. Lewis was Ulster County's 19th war fatality. The resolution asks that the County Legislature's meeting Thursday night be adjourned in memory of the Saugerties Marine.

Coffee is all we make. And we've found a way to make it better. A cup of coffee gets its flavor from what scientists call "available flavor solids." We have developed a new way of blending and roasting that gives our coffee more of these flavor solids than other leading coffees. As the chart shows—13% more, 14% more, even 15% more! You get a cup of coffee that has more flavor, more body, more strength. Even with cream and sugar the richer coffee flavor comes through. Enjoy some soon.

Longyear-Vorkink Nuptials

On Saturday, June 8, in James Chapel of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, Miss Gaye Crispell Longyear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston Longyear Jr. of Mexico City, Mex., became the bride of Peter Vorkink II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francois Nances Vorkink of New Hope, Pa.

The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Robert L. DeWitt, (Episcopal) Bishop of Pennsylvania.

The bride wore a gown of silk-faced peau de sole with a bateau neckline. The flared silhouette was enhanced by alencon lace hush sleeves and a fully detachable train. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to an alencon lace Camelot cap. She carried a white satin Book of Common Prayer, decorated with lily-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Victor Chavez Ocampo, the bride's sister, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Paul Torrens, a Peace Corps partner; Miss Nancy Vorkink, the bridegroom's sister; and Miss Pauline Enequist, a college friend. The attendants wore gowns of blue silk organza caes over blue taffeta sheaths. The long sleeves and neck were bordered by Venice lace. They carried yellow sweetheart roses.

Arvid Muller, a former student of the bride, was ring bearer. His sister, Astrid, was flower girl.

Mrs. Vorkink, a former Peace Corps volunteer of Bogotá, Colombia, is a graduate of the University of Denver. She teaches at Trinity School in New York City. Her father is vice-president in charge of production of the Sydney Ross Company, a subsidiary of Sterling Drug in Mexico City. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Livingston Longyear II, Brooklyn, and Elwyn Crispell Davis of West Shoken and Mrs. Elwyn Crispell Davis of Kingston. She is also the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lemuel Smith of Olivebridge. Vorkink is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1965. He was graduated magna cum laude this year from The Union Theological Seminary in New York City. They plan to study for one year at Tubingen and Robert R. Henderson, the bridegroom's uncle.

MOLD IS FOR EATING—NOT JUST LOOKS

Dear Mrs. Post: How does one serve oneself when a delicate dish is on the table at a luncheon or buffet? I can just picture it falling apart after the first serving is removed. (The letter was accompanied by a mouth-watering picture of a chicken salad surrounded by a mold of lemon jello.)

At the home of a relative, I was the first to serve myself from something slightly similar and I asked how I could get a serving without ruining the whole thing. My sister-in-law said she knew of no way—that it just had to be done. Have you a suggestion? Surely, all this should not be ruined after just one serving is removed! I have yet to see a mold with a center 'bowl' to hold the center filling.

—Mrs. Gray.
Dear Mrs. Gray: When a mold around a filling is edible, it's intended to be eaten! Your sister is right, there is no remedy. The first diner must destroy the appetizing appearance. Hopefully, the other guests will have had a chance to see the attractive arrangement before it is broken up. Even a bowl for the filling would not solve the problem, since the outer ring would still be ruined by the first cutting.

Demitasse Cups Correct for After-Luncheon Coffee

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible to use demitasse cups at a luncheon? I have some lovely ones which I enjoy using—but my friends are mostly widows who do not go out after dark, so our entertaining is done during daylight hours.

—Mrs. Peters.

Dear Mrs. Peters: You may use your demitasse cups after a luncheon. If you wish to serve the coffee with lunch, you must use larger cups, but for after-lunch (as well as dinner) coffee, the small ones are correct.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The letter chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Two local high school seniors, in the school production of the Kingston High School del's Sonata Number 4, and at Virginia Carle of Ontario Central Schools and Terri Lynn Marcus of Kingston High School, have been selected by the Junior Board of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society to receive scholarships of recognition for their outstanding character, musical ability and interest in the community.

The Junior Board, which also sponsors two concerts each year, initiated these scholarships as a way of commending the dedication and achievement of some of our most promising music students. Miss Carle plays both the violin and piano, and Miss Marcus has been studying the violin for 10 years.

Considered by Earl Proper of the Ontario High School Music department to be the best clarinetist in both the band and orchestra, Virginia also sings in the chorus and was able to learn the part of Josephine.

Terri Marcus is a member of the Kingston High School del's Sonata Number 4, and at Drama Club, French Honor Society, National Honor Society, Senior Class Executive Council and Orchestra. She is also a member of Hi-Y and the Junior Board of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society.

Miss Marcus is currently studying violin with Frank Mele and is a soloist of the Little Chamber Orchestra, an organization made up of Mele's violin and viola students and Luis Garcia-Renart's cello students. In one of these Little concerts Miss Garcia-Renart's cello students. In one of these Little concerts Miss Marcus played Han-

Both of these fine young musicians are to be congratulated for their dedication to music and their contribution to the community. The Junior Board of the HVJS also deserves praise for making this worthwhile gesture.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

We just returned from our vacation and before I even unpack my suitcase, I want to tell you about an experience we had.

Our four children each had an inexpensive plastic camera with which to record their trip. At one point in our tour — and on an especially hot, sunny day — we spent over an hour in a restaurant.

When we returned to the car, I wish you could have seen those plastic cameras! They had been left in the back window of the car and were no longer even recognizable. Truly, all four had MELTED and become pieces of twisted, warped-looking plastic. The children heartbroken.

So please tell those who own own plastic cameras (or anything else plastic for that matter), to be sure to keep them out of the sunny parts of the car.

Vacationer

You are right about some plastic items will melt sure as shootin'. So, folks, do try to remember to keep them out of that back window which can become so very hot...

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have three young children and when I had to put shoes on them, it was very difficult because they curled their toes. A shoe salesman told me to cup my hand around their knee and rub the sides very gently and their feet would relax immediately. I did it and worked — their shoes slid right on.

Elsie

Could you tell me what kind of sandwiches can be made and frozen ahead of time for a wedding? I know you can freeze bread, but what fillings can be frozen and still be nice and fresh when thawed?

Mrs. R. Maddox

How about it? Perhaps some of you have recently helped with a wedding reception and can give us some tips.

We sure would love to hear

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible to use demitasse cups at a luncheon? I have some lovely ones which I enjoy using—but my friends are mostly widows who do not go out after dark, so our entertaining is done during daylight hours.

—Mrs. Peters.

Dear Mrs. Peters: You may use your demitasse cups after a luncheon. If you wish to serve the coffee with lunch, you must use larger cups, but for after-luncheon (as well as dinner) coffee, the small ones are correct.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that we receive each week, we'll send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The letter chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Two local high school seniors, in the school production of Virginia Carle of Onteora Central Schools and Terri Lynn Marcus of Kingston High School, have been selected by the Junior Board of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society to receive scholarships of recognition for their outstanding character, musical ability and interest in the community.

The Junior Board, which also sponsors two concerts each year, initiated those scholarships as a way of commending the dedication and achievement of some of our most promising music students. Miss Carle plays both clarinet and piano, and Miss Marcus has been studying the violin for 10 years.

Considered by Earl Proper of the Onteora High School Music department to be the best clarinetist in both the band and orchestra, Virginia also sings in the chorus and was able to learn the part of Josephine.

Terri Marcus is a member of the Kingston High School Drama Club, French Honor Society, National Honor Society, Senior Class Executive Council and Orchestra. She is also a member of Hi-Y and the Junior Board of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society.

Miss Marcus is currently studying violin with Frank Mele and is a soloist of the Little Chamber Orchestra, an organization made up of Mele's violin and viola students and Luis Garcia-Renart's cello students.

In one of these Little concerts Miss Garcia-Renart's cello students. In one of these Little concerts Miss Marcus played Handel's Sonata Number 4, and at Kingston High School this talented young lady played the Viotti Concerto Number 22. She recently applied for and received a full tuition music scholarship from Ithaca College which she intends to utilize in preparing for a career in music education.

Both of these fine young musicians are to be congratulated for their dedication to music and their contribution to the community. The Junior Board of the HVJS also deserves praise for making this worthwhile gesture.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: We just returned from our vacation and before I even unpack my suitcase, I want to tell you about an experience we had.

Our four children each had an inexpensive plastic camera with which to record their trip. At one point in our tour—and on an especially hot, sunny day—we spent over an hour in a restaurant.

When we returned to the car, I wish you could have seen those plastic cameras! They had been left in the back window of the car and were no longer even recognizable. Truly, all four had MELTED and become pieces of twisted, warped-looking plastic. The children heartbroken.

So please tell those who own own plastic cameras (or anything else plastic for that matter), to be sure to keep them out of the sunny parts of the car.

Vacationer

Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have three young children and when I had to put shoes on them, it was very difficult because they curled their toes. A shoe salesman told me to cup my hand around their knee and rub the sides very gently and their foot would relax immediately. I did it and it worked—their shoes slide right on.

Elsie

Could you tell me what kind of sandwiches can be made and frozen ahead of time for a wedding? I know you can freeze bread, but what fillings can be frozen and still be nice and fresh when thawed?

Mrs. R. Maddox

How about it? Perhaps some of you have recently helped with a wedding reception and can give us some tips. We sure would love to hear

SAFE AT THIRD — Is 11-game winner Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants as he slides in safely under the tag of Maury Wills in the sixth inning of yesterday's game. Niekro Was Undone By the Maris Heel

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris' tender heel probably hurts a lot less than Phil Niekro's scraped knuckles after their most recent duel at 60 feet, 6 inches.

Maris limped out of St. Louis' starting line-up Monday night with a bruised heel after smashing a two-run third inning homer that knocked out knuckleballer Niekro and powered the Cardinals to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—

Lee Trevino tied for 54th place in the 1966 U.S. open. Last year he was fifth.

The way this talented Texan is playing now—he's won $30,000 since the 1967 Open in his first year on the tour—he could win this year's classic, which will be played out between yawning bunkers and beckoning trees on Rochester's Oak Hill course.

One thing is certain, Trevino is out to win.

"Why else would I be here?" he asks.

But he quickly adds he doubts it will be one of the "new breed" who wins the nation's most prestigious golf prize next Sunday.

It'll be one of the veteran players, more ably equipped to withstand the withering pressures that are an occupational hazard in the Open.

Sees New Record

Not only does he pick former champion Billy Casper to take the Open, but Trevino predicts Jack Nicklaus' year-old Open record of 275 may be tied, if the weather holds up.

"If the record isn't matched, it'll take at least a 276 or 277 to win here," the stocky lad from El Paso said.

"I think I have a very good chance—but I know the pressure will be great," he said.

"About the only way for me to win is to have a big lead going into the final round and just back in. This is a tough course, but I like tough courses. My hitting has been great and I've been putting well. And, I don't think I'll be as nervous this year as I was last year."

Few people had ever heard of Lee Trevino outside of the Southwest when he suddenly burst out of the pack last year to make a serious bid for the Open title.

"Oh, I'll be nervous," he added. "I was so nervous at Houston that the club seemed to weigh 100 pounds."

Casper Jackpot Hits $124,243

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—

Billy Casper, off to the best start in his career with four tournament victories, is making a runaway in the race for total earnings on the pro golf tour.

Weekly figures compiled by the Professional Golfers Association of America showed Casper's victory Sunday in the Indianapolis 500 Classic earned him $20,000 and boosted his total earnings for the year to $124,243.

The southern California golfer is far ahead of runner-up Tom Weiskopf, who has pocketed $85,552 on the tournament trail.

Aparicio

NEW YORK (UPI)—Luis

Aparicio, a question mark starter until just before game time because he is suffering with an ailing leg, doubled in the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning to ignite a three-run rally

Monday night as the cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox topped the New York Yankees

5-2.

Aparicio had been out of the starting lineup for the last five games with a pulled leg muscle even though he saw limited duty in those games and manager

Eddie Stanky did not decide to start him until just before the game began.

Aparicio scored one run in the fifth inning to put the White Sox ahead 2-1 when he singled, went to third on Tim Cullen's hit-and-run single and scored on a force out by pinchhitter Wayne

Causey.

After the Yankees tied the game in the seventh on a run-scoring pinch-hit single by

Charlie Smith, Aparicio got the key hit in the ninth inning that pinned the loss on reliever

Dooley Womack, now 0-5.

Ken Berry started the rally with a single and was sacrificed to second. Manager Ralph Houk

then ordered Duane Josephson walked intentionally to bring up

Aparicio, who sliced a double to right field that scored Berry.

After Cullen was walked intentionally, pinchhitter Bill Voss singled in the final two runs to knock out Womack and John

Wyatt came on to get the final two outs.

The first two runs of the game came on homers. Tom

McCraw homered for Chicago in the fourth for New York off

Bob Priddy.

Powell Happy Hitting His Weight

WARM-UP TIME is here for this weekend's U.S. Open at the Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, and Doug Sanders is the center of attraction for Bobby Cole, Johannesburg, South Africa, as the two prepare for Thursday's first round. Cole tries to follow Sanders' ball off the driving range tee as Sanders, a long-ball hitter, gets the kinks worked out. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Bird Slugger Up to .250

By FRED DOWN

Harry Dalton's pre-season operation has turned out so successfully that even Boog

Powell no longer feels the pain.

Powell was an unhappy patient when the Baltimore

Orioles' director of personnel insisted that the big first baseman take a pay cut last spring. Powell held out for a while but then went under the knife to the tune of about $3,000

—modest enough surgery considering his .234 batting average, 13 homers and 55 runs batted in for the 1967 season.

But now the 250-pound Boog is off to the fastest start of his career with a .250 batting average, eight homers and 37 runs batted in and able to quip,

"I'm always happy when I'm hitting my weight this early in the season." Powell has been a notorious slow starter throughout his career even when he was one of the American League's most dangerous sluggers in 1966.

Doing Nothing New

"I'm not aware that I'm doing anything different," said

Powell Monday night after driving in two runs and scoring another in the Orioles' 4-1 victory over the Washington

Senators. "But I like what's happening."

Casper, who won his fourth tournament this year when he captured the Indianapolis 500 Festival Open Sunday, has banked $124,000 and is far and away the leading money winner on the circuit.

He got his first look at Oak Hill Monday and skipped practice Monday to fly promptly declared he felt he could win.

"I think I have a good chance, a very good chance," he said. "I'm driving well—and this is a wonderful golf course. I didn't play a ball out of the rough today."

Defending champion Nicklaus to Florida and pick up his wife, Arnold Palmer, still a threat despite an ailing hip, was a late arrival.

Some of the pros, however, have been working here for a week or so. Among them is Tom Weiskopf, second leading money-winner and the most successful of pro golf's "Young Lions" who have made such a stir this year. He opened right away that Oak Hill is a tough course.

"You've got to drive straight here, or you're lost," he said.

Former champion Gary Player of South Africa also has spent about a week studying the course's demanding environs.

He likes what he has seen and thinks he can win.

"I'm playing the best golf of my life this year and I played this course steadily," he said.

"The bunker play is an important thing. The sand is soft—the ball buries.

Bad Leg Aparicio Tops N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Luis Aparicio, a question mark starter until just before game time because he is suffering with an ailing leg, doubled in the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning to ignite a three-run rally Monday night as the cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox topped the New York Yankees 5-2.

Aparicio had been out of the starting lineup for the last five games with a pulled leg muscle even though he saw limited duty in those games and manager Eddie Stanky did not decide to start him until just before the game began.

Aparicio scored one run in the fifth inning to put the White Sox ahead 2-1 when he singled, went to third on Tim Cullen's hit-and-run single and scored on a force out by pinchhitter Wayne Causey.

After the Yankees tied the game in the seventh on a run-scoring pinch-hit single by Charlie Smith, Aparicio got the key hit in the ninth inning that pinned the loss on reliever Dooley Womack, now 0-5.

Ken Berry started the rally with a single and was sacrificed to second. Manager Ralph Houk then ordered Duane Josephson walked intentionally to bring up Aparicio, who sliced a double to right field that scored Berry. After Cullen was walked intentionally, pinchhitter Bill Voss singled in the final two runs to knock out Womack and John Wyatt came on to get the final two outs.

The first two runs of the game came on homers. Tom McCraw homered for Chicago in the second off Mel Stottlemyre and Andy Cosco homered in the fourth for New York off Bob Priddy.

Maris' homer, which followed a double by Lou Brock, saddled Niekro with his fifth loss in 10 decisions while inflating his earned run average to 4.19.

The Cardinals scored two second inning runs on singles by Cepeda. Tim McCarver and Mike Shannon plus a ground out. Deron Johnson and Bob Tillman tagged Jaster for the second in the bottom of the second, tying it 2-2.

Granger replaced Jaster, 5-2, in the eighth with two on and one out, gave up a run-scoring single to Hank Aaron and then got Joe Torre to bounce into a double play before checking the Braves in the ninth.

Marichal, winningest pitcher in the majors, fired a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season and 11th victory against two setbacks.

Willie Mays and Ollie Brown each drove in two runs and Willie McCovey hit his 11th homer as the Giants moved past Los Angeles and Atlanta into second place, three games off the pace.

Chicago's Ernie Banks clubbed his 10th and 11th homers, but the Cubs fell behind 3-2 before overtaking Cincinnati on Billy Williams' two-run double in the seventh.

Left-hander Ken Holtzman picked up his fifth victory against four losses with late-inning help from relievers Chuck Hartenstein and Phil Regan.

Powell Happy Hitting His Weight

WARM-UP TIME is here for this weekend's U.S. Open at the Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester. Bob Powell, who is the center of attraction for Thursday's first round, Cole tries to follow Sanders, a long-ball hitter, gets the kinks worked out. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Bird Slugger Up to .250

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Harry Dalton's pre-season operation has turned out so successfully that even Boog Powell no longer feels the pain.

Powell was an unhappy patient when the Baltimore Orioles' director of personnel insisted that the big first baseman take a pay cut last spring. Powell held out for a while but then went under the knife to the tune of about $3,000—modest enough surgery considering his .234 batting average, 13 homers and 55 runs batted in for the 1967 season.

But now the 250-pound Boog is off to the fastest start of his career with a .250 batting average, eight homers and 37 runs batted in and able to quip, "I'm always happy when I'm hitting my weight this early in the season." Powell has been a notorious slow starter throughout his career even when he was one of the American League's most dangerous sluggers in 1966.

Coaches Clinic Set at Kutsher's

MONTICELLO — The basketball staff for the opening session of the annual Kutsher's Country Club Coaches Clinic was announced today by Co-Director, Clair Bee.

The clinic, set for June 17-21, is free to coaches. Bee, a Hall of Famer, also announced that two more coaches of renown would be added. The second session, slated for June 24-28, will include some basketball along with football and baseball clinics.

Doing Nothing New
"I'm not aware that I'm doing anything different," said Powell Monday night after driving in two runs and scoring another in the Orioles' 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators. "But I like what's happening."

Powell drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the first inning, broke a 1-1 tie when he singled home Curt Motton, who had doubled, in the third and scored on a sacrifice fly by Curt Blefary in the sixth as the Orioles beat the Senators for the eighth straight time this season.

Seaver Stops Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Shortstop Al Weis singled home Ron Swoboda from third in the 10th inning Monday night to break up a scoreless game and bring the New York Mets to a 1-0 victory that snapped the Los Angeles Dodgers' seven game winning streak.

Swoboda led off the tenth with a walk and advanced to third on Kevin Collins' single. Weis then singled shallow to centerfield where Willie Davis attempted a shoestring catch, but missed as Swoboda scored.

Tom Seaver recorded the victory to make his record 45 while Don Sutton took the loss for a 3-6 mark. Seaver allowed only four hits and walked but one man while Sutton gave up five hits and three walks, but struck out 10.

The game quickly settled into a pitching duel between the two 23-year old right-handers.

Sutton did not give up a hit until the sixth inning when Don Bosch looped a broken bat single to right field. The Dodger hurler, however, earlier walked two men before Bosch singled.

Seaver was touched for a single in the second by Bob Bailey. Willie Davis then singled in the fourth and Ron Fairly in the seventh.

The Dodgers got their first runner as far as second base in the eighth inning when Paul Popovich led off with a single.

He reached second on Zoilo Versalles' sacrifice and a fielder's choice. But then Mets' catcher Jerry Grote picked Popovich off second to end the threat.

The Mets got runners to second twice, in the third and eighth innings, both times as a result of Seaver bunts after a walk and single.

Headed the list of clinicians is Joe Mullaney of Providence College, whose teams have been a perennial entry and past champ in the NIT. Joining him are Joe Carmesecco, head coach at St. John's University, Bob Davis of Georgetown College, Kentucky, Ernie Calverly of Rhode Island, Bates Locke, Miami of Ohio, Jack Donohue of Holy Cross, Larry O'Neill, Albany State, Virgil Sweet of Valparaiso, Ind. High School and Bee, former coach with LIU and the now defunct Baltimore Bullets.

Members of the 1966 AFL Champion Kansas City Chiefs, including quarterback Len Dawson and coach Hank Stram, will be lecturers in football.

Williams 5th Win
Max Alvis and Tony Horton drove in two runs each and rookie relief pitcher Mike Paul pitched 2-1 hitless innings for the Indians who presented Stan Williams with his fifth victory and dealt Lew Krausse his seventh loss.

Horton drove in one run with a sacrifice fly during Cleveland's three-run first inning and doubled home a run during a three-run eighth. Alvis singled to drive in a run in the seventh and capped the eighth-inning outburst with a double.

Schumann Team Wins Pro-Ladies
VALATIE — Bill Schumann, home pro, teamed with teenager Helen Beth Dunn, also of Columbia Country Club to win the 1968 Northeastern New York PGA Pro-Ladies Championship tournament in a sudden death playoff with Ed Bosse, Colonie, and Dr. Doris Rome also of Colonie.

The teams deadlocked at the end of 18 holes with 64 each, eight under par, but Schumann got a birdie-3 on the second extra hole to give his team the championship.

Ian (Scotty) Robertson, Wiltwyck pro, and club champion, Mrs. Richard Davenport, posted 35-33-68, the same figure turned in by Jim Hutchins, Woodstock pro, and Christine Dean with 36-32.

College or Pro Baseball: James Is Still Undecided

By MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

"It was on Ben Marmo's recommendation that they drafted me, and you can say I'm really excited and honored, being chosen by a major league team," said Charlie (Jesse) James, after receiving word the Philadelphia Phillies had chosen him for one of their minor league franchises.

James, the 6-foot-1, 180-pound fastballer who has been Kingston High's top pitcher the last two years, late Friday was drafted by the Phils in the major league's fourth annual draft of high school and college players.

Marmo's recommendation had carried the most weight. An area scout, Marmo recommended James on a pair of items. The first was James' two-year record of 8-3-2 at KHS, a record that saw 123 strikeouts in 65 innings, including a new standard of 20 whiffs in nine innings and the most consecutive strikeouts in KHS annals, seven.

The second item was a command performance before the top Phil's scouts last summer at Connie Mack Stadium in Philadelphia.

Recommended By Valo
A third recommendation came from former Phils standout, Elmer Valo, now a scout, a recommendation that aided in sewing up the Phils' reserving a chance to sign James.

The draft poses a problem—whether to choose to go to college (he has been accepted at and received an offer of grant-in-aid at Dartmouth) or sign a pro contract, thus passing up the chance to go to Dartmouth. "I still want to play pro ball, at least, get a chance at it. However, I may wait until I complete my degree before trying it as a pro," James said.

If he ever does sign, he will be the fourth member of his family to play for pay. His grandfather and two uncles preceded him, none ever making it to the majors.

The drafting of James marks the second time a Kingston High athlete has been chosen. The first selected was Brian Bach, who spurned the money for a chance to pitch at the University of Connecticut. When he completes his degree, Bach is expected to sign. He was drafted two years ago by the Atlanta Braves.

The Bach Influence
Bach's decisions have played a minor role in James' making up his mind. Although he is very much undecided, the Utica-born James said, "My dad has been guiding me right along, but I still don't know what to do."

Marmo indicated to James that he wanted to talk money at a later date. Marmo and Valo are expected to be on hand when the 17-year-old flinger hurls either Saturday or Sunday and might make the offer then.

Moving to Kingston seven years ago, James went through the chain of Little League, Babe Ruth League, high school and American Legion ball all in Kingston. He now pitches for Post 150 in Kingston's Legion loop, the Donnie Vans entry in the Kingston City League and for Fred Dav's Kingston Braves in the Hudson Valley Rookie League. The scouts who will watch him perform with the Braves.

Marmo indicated they would probably make their offer after watching James pitch one more time. According to the scout, James wasn't a high draft choice, because the club generally reserves the high choices for boys they feel they can sign immediately. Those waiting to go on to college are usually drafted later.

In addition to the Phils, James had been looked at seriously by Oakland, Boston, the Yankees, Cincinnati and the Pirates. Connecticut and Ithaca College had hoped to get him in college along with his choice, Dartmouth.

"They (the Phils) have drafted me and signed rights on me up until the 1969 draft next spring. I have a whole summer before entering Dartmouth to make up my mind when the Phils make their offer. I'll just sit down with my dad and think everything out. I'll stick by whatever is decided and that'll be it," James said.

In the top 10 per cent of his KHS class, James, whether he chooses the Phils or Dartmouth, has a mighty bright future to look to.

Wright's Posts 3-2 ESL Victory

An unearned run in the bottom of the seventh inning allowed Ron Joray and his team, Wright's Service Station, to take a 3-2 win over Hotel Shanley in the Ellenville Softball League.

Wright's went out front, 2-3 in the first on a single by Doug Horton, a two-out walk, a run-scoring single by Joray and an error on an infield grounder.

Shanley tied it with solo runs in the second and third frames, the tying run coming on a triple by Rich Conklin and a sacrifice fly by losing pitcher, Rich Hoffman.

The winning run came on a perfect bunt by Dave Frank, a sacrifice and error and a sacrifice only by Doug Horton.

Road Test magazine, a kind of automotive consumer's report, just published a 68-page comparison of the top 10 economy imports, including the bug. And for the second year in a row, they named the Renault 10 "most for the money." One reason was the Renault automatic transmission, which gives you 34.8 miles a gallon. Resnick Buys One Fourth Share in Nevele Pride

MONTICELLO—Nevele Pride, the great three-year-old trotter who races at Monticello Raceway this Friday night in the $10,000 E. T. Gerry Trot, now has a new part-owner, according to Ben J. Slutsky, head of Nevele Acres, previous full owners of the trotter.

Potentially the greatest trotter ever to campaign, Nevele Pride was named 1967 Horse of the Year as a two-year-old, and the Slutskys, Ben and Julius, yesterday added the name of Louis Resnick to the owners line on Friday's program. The Slutskys own

Nevele Acres Stables. Resnick, a dedicated horseman himself, of late concerned mainly with breeding and the racing of fillies, purchased one fourth of the colt for a price considered to be huge. Although the actual price is undisclosed, it is known to be more than the $2 million Castleton Farm paid for a share of retired world champion pacer, Bret Hanover.

High Grade Stable
Resnick, a boyhood friend of the Slutskys, all being born and raised in Ellenville, has campaigned solely with fast, ionably bred fillies the past three seasons.

Tops in the stable is Daring Speed, a three-year-old trotting miss and Quickie Hanover, same age but a pacer. Last year Resnick shelled out the highest price for a filly at auction, giving $40,000 for Sherill Hanover. Nevele Pride is the first colt Resnick will be racing in more than the trio of years.

In commenting on the transaction, Ben J. Slutsky said, "Lou Resnick has been my friend and my brother's friend since we were boys. We grew up together, live in the same area together. Lou is devoted to harness racing and dedicated to the breeding and of the sport as well. Since Pride will become a sire someday, we were happy to let Lou purchase a piece of the horse. We are confident he will make wise use of his share when Pride is retired for breeding purposes.

Resnick was overjoyed with the Slutsky decision. "I'm delighted that Ben and Julius saw fit to let me purchase a piece of this great trotter," he said. "One of my main reasons for being in harness racing is breeding and it's tremendous pleasure to own a share of such a great horse."

Resnick, who along with his brothers, Harry and Joseph, founded Channel Master, Inc., in Ellenville. For the past three years Lou Resnick has been a big buyer at the yearling sales, purchasing nearly $200,000 worth of fillies. He currently has three daughters of Adios, four daughters of Star's Pride, a daughter of Speedster and a daughter of Tarheel. Additionally, he owns shares in the stallions Speedy Rodney and Noble Victory.

The Slutsky family has long been in harness racing as well. They have owned many top raceway performers and in addition to their great star, Nevele Pride, own Nevele Dancer, a $100,000 winner last year, they were active in the yearling market again last fall buying Nevele Major, a Star's Pride brother to Perfect Freight, Nevele Adios, an Adios brother to Gee Lee Hanover, Nevele Pilot, a half-brother to Nevele Dancer, and Nevele Dream, a sister to Gamecock. Also, they recently purchased Cardinal King, the winner of the recent International Series at Yonkers Raceway with his three race sweep of the series,

Monticello Win

MONTICELLO—Real (Coco) Cormier, the 34-year-old Canadian born reinsman who won Monticello Raceway's driving championship last year with a record 77 wins, likes to surround himself with beauty and the finer things in life.

Cormier has his hands full last night, joining the 30 finalists in the Miss New York State Beauty Pageant in the winner's circle at the Mighty M, having won the featured pace behind Smokey Byrd, the even money favorite in the field of seven pacers, had a rough trip, going the first half-mile mostly on the outside, but wound up a length-and-a-half winner in a quick 2:05, marking his third win of the year in as many outings.

Resnick Buys One Fourth Share in Nevele Pride

MONTICELLO—Nevele Pride, the great three-year-old trotter who races at Monticello Raceway this Friday night in the $10,000 E. T. Gerry Trot, now has a new part-owner, according to Ben J. Slutsky, head of Nevele Acres, previous full owners of the trotter.

Potentially the greatest trotter ever to campaign, Nevele Pride was named 1967 Horse of the Year as the two-year-old, the Slutskys, Ben and Julius, yesterday added the name of Louis Resnick to the owners line on Friday's program. The Slutskys own

Nevele Acres Stables. Resnick, a dedicated horseman himself, of late concerned mainly with breeding and racing of fillies, purchased one-fourth of the colt for a price considered to be huge. Although the actual price is undisclosed, it is known to be more than the $2 million Castleton Farm paid for a share of retired world champion pacer, Bret Hanover.

High Grade Stable
Resnick, a boyhood friend of the Slutskys, all being born and raised in Ellenville, has campaigned solely with fashionably bred fillies the past three seasons.

Tops in the stable is Daring Speed, a three-year-old trotting miss and Quickie Hanover, same age but a pacer. Last year Resnick shelled out the highest price for a filly at auction, giving $40,000 for Sherill Hanover. Nevele Pride is the first colt Resnick will have racing in more than the trio of years.

In commenting on the transaction, Ben J. Slutsky said, "Lou Resnick has been my friend and my brother's friend since we were boys. We grew up together, live in the same area together, Lou is devoted to harness racing and dedicated to the breeding and will sport as well. Since Pride will become a sire someday, we were happy to let Lou purchase a piece of the horse. We are confident he will make wise use of his share when Pride is retired for breeding purposes. Resnick was overjoyed with the Slutsky decision. "I'm delighted that Ben and Julius saw fit to let me purchase a piece of this great trotter," he said. "One of my main reasons for being in harness racing is breeding and it's tremendous pleasure to own a share of such a great horse."

Resnick, who along with his brothers, Harry and Joseph, founded Channel Master, Inc., in Ellenville. For the past three years Lou Resnick has been a big buyer at the yearling sales purchasing nearly $200,000 worth of fillies. He currently has three daughters of Star's Pride, a daughter of Speedster and a daughter of Tar Heel. Additionally, he owns shares in the stallions Speedy Rodney and Noble Victory.

The Slutsky family has long been in harness racing as well. They have owned many top raceway performers and in addition to their great star, Nevele

Pride, own Nevele Dancer, a $100,000 winner last year, they were active in the yearling market again last fall buying Nevele Major, a Star's Pride brother to Perfect Brother, Nevele Adios, an Adios brother to Glee Hanover, Nevele Pilot, a half-brother to Nevele Dancer, and Nevele Dream, a sister to Gamecock. Also, they recently purchased Cardinal King, the winner of the recent International Series at Yonkers Raceway with his three race sweep of the series,

Stokes, Eggleston Hurl Softball Wins

Pitching was the vogue last night at Block Park as Billy Stokes fired a two-hitter in leading Royal Grill to a seventh inning, 1-0 win over Perry's Grill and Skip Eggleston twirled a nifty three-hitter as Augie's Cub 99 stopped Yalibou's, 6-1.

Stokes went the route, striking out five and walking none. He handcuffed Perry's giving up just a double to losing hurler, Mike Amato and a single to Tony Amato.

Mike Amato matched him with goose eggs over the first six frames but cost himself the game in the final frame (bottom half). He gave up a single to Tom Fiore, who took third on the overthrow by leftfielder Hobie Armstrong, and a pair of bunt singles to Vince Reilly and Stokes shifted to short as Billy Costello took the mound, he bobbled Nick Berardi's ground-er with Fiere racing home for the game's only tally.

Report Ornato Refuses Offer

According to published reports in today's Times-Herald Record, Mike Ornato, head coach at Port Chester High, has turned down a Kingston High offer to succeed Bill Hurley as football coach.

Kingston officials were unavailable for comment Monday.

The Middletown source said Ornato was the first choice of four-man committee named to select Hurley's successor. Ornato reportedly turned because "he had purchased a new home and didn't want to move his family," according to the T-H.

Ornato had been at Port Chester the past two years following a four-year tenure at Waterloo High in upstate New York.

Public Employes Strike, Despite the Legislation

By JAN HARTNETT

Some of the 17 states with laws banning strikes by public employes have learned the hard way that such measures—even those with tough penalties—are not a guarantee against walk-outs.

Thousands of teachers, sanitation workers and others on city, county and state pay rolls have struck in defiance of the state laws. In some cases they have suffered minor, if any, consequences despite stiff penalty provisions.

Not all of the 17 state measures call for penalties.

Antistrike laws covering public employes are in effect in Massachusetts, Delaware, Illinois, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas, Hawaii and Oregon.

In Illinois, there are no statutory provisions specifically banning strikes by public employes. But the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that strikes by public service workers—including teachers—are unlawful.

A 1947 Pennsylvania law bars strikes by public employes under penalty of dismissal. The law provides that if a striker subsequently is rehired, he shall not be hired back at a salary higher than he received when he struck; receive no salary increase for three years; shall lose his tenure and be on probation for five years.

Ineffective Language

But the strong language law was ineffective on two occasions recently. An 11-day strike by 1,000 Pittsburgh teachers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, and a massive protest march by 20,000 members of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Florida has an antistrike law for public employes, but its constitutionality is being questioned by a suit pending in the Florida Supreme Court.

Some 25,000 of Florida's 60,000 teachers walked out in February. Most were accepted back into classrooms without punishment following their mass "resignations."

But some were not taken back and others were rehired without tenure. The law provides that those who strike or resign without 30 days' notice can't be rehired for a year.

Virginia law prohibits any agency of the state or local political subdivisions from negotiating or bargaining with employes unions. Under the 1946 law, any employe—state, city or county—who goes on strike or otherwise fails to report for work shall be fired.

Iowa has a so-called right-to-work law, but it has no legislation prohibiting strikes either by public employes or industrial employes. It does have a law prohibiting collective bargaining between state agencies and its employes.

Ohio has had a law for years forbidding strikes by public employes, but teachers and other public employes have struck, threatened to strike and stayed off their jobs for "study sessions" without suffering serious consequences.

Perhaps the most controversial antistrike legislation involves New York State.

For many years, New York State had the so-called Condon-Wadlin law on its books, which forbids strikes by public employes. It mandated strike penalties for violators—automatic dismissal, loss of promotion rights and pay raises for those eventually rehired. But over the years, the law was regarded so harsh that the state ignored it, as did employes.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the New York Legislature fostered a study which produced the Taylor law, enacted last year. It forbids strikes, but does not mandate dismissal of violators. The law switches penalty emphasis from rank-and-file employes to their unions and union leaders. The public employe may obtain a court injunction against striking; if it is violated, the union can be fined up to $10,000 a day for criminal contempt.

Fired During Strike
Such an injunction was filed during the garbage strike in New York City and the president of the New York City Sanitation Workers' Union was jailed.

The teachers' strike occurred just as the administrative mechanisms for implementing the Taylor law were being set up, and it was generally agreed that it was not a fair test of the law's effectiveness in preventing strikes.

Sanitation union leaders openly defied the no-strike ban and mediation procedures when the garbage dispute arose. A settlement was eventually worked out through binding arbitration. There was criticism at this point that the Taylor law had failed its first big test.

Proponents of the law pointed out that New York City is exempt from some provisions of the Taylor law, including one that the State Public Employment Relations Board is forbidden from intervening in the city until a strike has begun.

Sex Education Is Discussed In Red Hook

While the home is the ideal place for sex education of children and youth, it is desirable for the church, the school, and other responsible groups in the community to supplement this education.

This viewpoint was expressed by those attending the sex education series, sponsored by the Red Hook Ministerium, three evenings in May.

Emphasis was on the physical, religious, and psychological and social aspects of sex and a large number of professional resource people were called in to discuss sex with the children and parents.

Participants filled out evaluation questionnaires at the end of the last session and all those who attended indicated that there should be more community-wide sex education series like this one. The overwhelming majority felt that these should be for the same age group, seventh and eighth graders, although many felt it is just as important for other age groups such as fifth and sixth graders and the ninth through twelfth graders.

During the series the children, who became quite involved in the discussions, asked many of the same questions that the parents asked in their group. For example, the children were interested in how does one become popular while the parents wondered about the kind of dating and social situations for their child. A majority of both youth and parents indicated they wanted to talk to each other more about sex.

All but one parent wrote that he was able to discuss the programs with their child as the series was in progress and all parents indicated that they felt their child benefited from the series (not at all, 0 per cent; some, 20 per cent; much, 40 per cent; and very much, 40 per cent).

The children themselves noted that the series was of help to them (not at all, 2 per cent; some, 38 per cent; much, 30 per cent and very much, 30 per cent).

The parents also noted that the series was of help to them as parents (not at all, 1 per cent; some, 19 per cent; much, 34 per cent and very much, 46 per cent).

The planning committee, consisting of Mrs. Selma Harde-man, nurse at the Red Hook elementary and junior high school, John D. Flemings, social worker and director of clinical services at Overbrook Center, and Rev. Roger Leonard, minister at St. John's Reformed Church, expressed pleasure not only at the attendance, which averaged over 250, but also in the participation during discussions. It was felt that the goals noted were met for the most part, particularly in helping to enlighten children concerning their own human growth, dispelling some myths about sex education, in preparing parents to answer questions and talk with their children, and in encouraging children to formulate a high standard of ethics and values for themselves to better guide their conduct as they mature.

The programs were not meant to be comprehensive and it was noted that the series ended with many questions not yet answered. While the responsibility falls on the parents, people should feel free to seek additional help on an individual basis from such people as social workers, clergy, and teachers.

Key Government Witness Admits Receiving Payoff

NEW YORK (UPI)—A key government witness in a kickback trial has told the court that he and James L. Marcus, former utilities commissioner, shared a $10,000 payoff with another city commissioner whom he did not identify.

Herbert Itkin, a 41-year-old labor lawyer indicted with Marcus and four others on federal charges involving a $40,000 kickback on a reservoir-cleaning contract, cited the alleged payoff from the L.N.R. Construction Co. among other under-the-table payments he said they received.

He said the payment was "very close to a bribe."

Defense attorney James LaRossa asked who shared in the payoff.

"A commissioner," Itkin replied.

"Marcus?" LaRossa asked.

"No, another commissioner," the witness said. He added that he and Marcus shared $7,500 of the sum allegedly paid by the construction company and the other commissioner took the remaining $2,500.

Marcus, who has pleaded guilty, and Itkin are testifying for the government against the other defendants—reputed Mafia leader Anthony "Tony Ducks" Corallo, corporation executive Henry Fried, union official Daniel Motto and labor lawyer Charles J. Rappaport.

Itkin testified Monday that he does not expect the government to prosecute him on the kickback charge.

He told Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld and an all-male jury that he expects consideration because he "had been working for the government."

Itkin, who described himself earlier as an unpaid FBI informant, said he expects to testify for the government in about 50 cases.

Under questioning by Weinfeld, however, Itkin admitted that he took part in the alleged conspiracy, that he was in it for the money, and that he did not tell the FBI about it until it was all over. He said he did not remember to whom he reported it at the FBI.

LaRossa, representing Motto, obtained an admission from Itkin that he had visited a psychiatrist several times. When the attorney asked whether the witness had been "cured," the government objected and was upheld by Weinfeld.

Itkin said he and Marcus had split five or six other payments in addition to the $40,000 mentioned in the indictment and the $10,000 he said they got from the construction company.

The alleged kickback is said to have been paid by the S.T. Grand Co., a firm headed by that he took part in the alleged conspiracy, that he was in it for the money, and that he did not

Verdict Given In Ellenville Fire Death

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson has issued a verdict in the death of Lawrence Pietila also known as Larry Taylor, which occurred after he was removed from a building fire on May 31 at 136 Canal Street in Ellenville.

Coroner Chipp said investigation disclosed that Pietila died of asphyxia due to smoke poisoning. Identification, Chipp said, was made through the examination of fingerprints by Ellenville police officials. The man also suffered second and third degree burns of 75 per cent of his body, the coroner noted.

After the fire was discovered, Mark Albert, owner of the three-story building, entered the upstairs room and carried Pietila outside where he was administered emergency treatment before being taken to the Ellenville Community Hospital where he died.

Chipp said that efforts by authorities to locate relatives of the victim of the fire had been unsuccessful.

Key Government Witness Admits Receiving Payoff

NEW YORK (UPI)—A key government witness in a kickback trial has told the court that he and James L. Marcus, former utilities commissioner, shared a $10,000 payoff with another city commissioner whom he did not identify.

Herbert Itkin, a 41-year-old labor lawyer indicted with Marcus and four others on federal charges involving a $40,000 kickback on a reservoir - cleaning contract, cited the alleged payoff from the L.N.R. Construction Co. among other under-the-table payments he said they received.

He said the payment was "very close to a bribe." Defense attorney James LaRossa asked who shared in the payoff.

"A commissioner," Itkin replied.

"Marcus?" LaRossa asked. "No, another commissioner," the witness said. He added that he and Marcus shared $7,500 of the sum allegedly paid by the construction company and the other commissioner took the remaining $2,500.

Marcus, who has pleaded guilty, and Itkin are testifying for the government against the other defendants—reputed Mafia leader Anthony "Tony Ducks" Corallo, corporation executive Henry Fried, union official Daniel Motto and labor lawyer Charles J. Rappaport.

Itkin testified Monday that he does not expect the government to prosecute him on the kickback charge.

He told Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld and an all-male jury that he expects consideration because he "had been working for the government."

Itkin, who described himself earlier as an unpaid FBI informant, said he expects to testify for the government in about 50 cases.

Under questioning by Weinfeld, however, Itkin admitted that he took part in the alleged conspiracy, that he was in it for the money, and that he did not tell the FBI about it until it was all over. He said he did not remember to whom he reported it at the FBI.

LaRossa, representing Motto, obtained an admission from Itkin that he had visited a psychiatrist several times. When the attorney asked whether the witness had been "cured," the government objected and was upheld by Weinfeld.

Itkin said he and Marcus had split five or six other payments in addition to the $40,000 mentioned in the indictment and the $10,000 he said they got from the construction company.

The alleged kickback is said to have been paid by the S.T. Grand Co., a firm headed by that he took part in the alleged conspiracy, that he was in it for the money, and that he did not

Verdict Given In Ellenville Fire Death

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson has issued a verdict in the death of Lawrence Pietila also known as Larry Taylor, which occurred after he was removed from a building fire on May 31 at 136 Canal Street in Ellenville.

Coroner Chipp said investigation disclosed that Pietila died of asphyxia due to smoke poisoning. Identification, Chipp said, was made through the examination of fingerprints by Ellenville police officials. The man also suffered second and third degree burns of 75 per cent of his body, the coroner noted.

After the fire was discovered, Mark Albert, owner of the three-story building, entered the upstairs room and carried Pietila outside where he was administered emergency treatment before being taken to the Ellenville Community Hospital where he died.

Chipp said that efforts by authorities to locate relatives of the victim of the fire had been unsuccessful.

Verdict Pending In Death of Resort Employee

A verdict as to the cause of death of Dwight Lamar Culp, 39, an employee at the Fallsview Hotel, whose body was found floating in a lake near the summer resort, has been withheld pending further investigation by State Police, according to Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson.

The body was discovered at 4:20 p. m. last Thursday by Aaron Reese of Dadeville, Ala. Culp was removed to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital after being taken from the water.

According to the coroner, Culp told friends Wednesday evening that he was going fishing on the lake. That was the last time he was seen alive, Chipp noted. A boat with a fishing pole and a man's shirt was seen drifting on the lake at 6:45 a. m. Thursday by James Heard also of Dadeville. Later in the day a white object was seen some distance from shore and subsequently a check of the object revealed the body.

BCI Investigator Michael Bonney and Troopers John Hunt and Wayne Lawrence of the Ellenville State Police made the preliminary investigation of the case with Chipp, who reported the cause of death had not been determined and no verdict has been rendered pending further investigation.

40,000 Signatures
State Sen. W.G. McCarley of Autauga County, Ala., reported from Springfield, Ill., Monday that Wallace supporters there have gathered more than 40,000 signatures, 15,000 more than the necessary number.

McCarley said he will file the petitions between July 29 and Aug. 5 to complete the legal requirements for Wallace to appear on the Illinois ballot in November.

Wallace's former news secretary Ed Ewing said in Raleigh, N.C., that the former governor has thousands more signatures than are needed to gain ballot position in that state.

Ewing said he gave North Carolina Elections Board officials petitions containing more than 16,000 signatures, at least 6,000 more than the number a third party candidate needs to qualify in North Carolina. He said about 60,000 more signatures are waiting in Montgomery if needed.

Earlier, Wallace told a news conference in Montgomery that "our nation's leadership has failed."

He said he blames the nation's problems on those "who have brought about the breakdown of law and order." Wallace also told the newsmen "those in high places who have encouraged violence, have created a Frankenstein."

Referring to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Wallace said the nation's streets are no longer safe for presidential candidates or the average citizen.

But Wallace said gun control isn't likely to solve the problem of violence. Such laws "will in the main wind up taking the guns out of the hands of the good citizens. The criminal can always get guns," he said. The solution to violence, Wallace said, "lies in obedience to the law. We must give our police the authority to enforce the law."

As Wallace spoke, he was ringed by Secret Service agents plus at least two state troopers. The Secret Service detail was provided by President Johnson for major presidential candidates after Kennedy was shot.

Not since Gov. Lurleen Wallace died of cancer May 7 has Wallace made a public appearance on behalf of his third party presidential bid.

Wallace Resumes Bid for Presidency

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—George Wallace resumed his bid for the presidency Monday, bolstered by reports of enough signatures to gain ballot space in Illinois and North Carolina.

George Wallace swings into an 11-city Southern tour today—his first public appearances since his wife's death.

Wallace leaves for Memphis, Tenn., where a fund-raising dinner and a rally are on his schedule.

Ellenville State Police BCI officers today continued investigation of the sudden death by electrocution of Paul Niosi, 43, of Napanoch, which occurred Saturday night at the VAW United Aluminum Works of America, Inc., on Channel Master Road in Ellenville.

State Police Sergeant Henry S. Rhodes said Niosi apparently was trying to connect two 440-volt extension cords in the plant at the time. He was rushed to the Ellenville Community Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival by two physicians.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson investigated the death with BCI investigators Michael Mahoney and Michael Bonney of the Ellenville substation of State police.

According to Sergeant Rhodes complete details of the fatal incident were being gathered by investigators.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen this problem in print before, but you have no idea how much it means to those of us who are faced with it.

My husband thinks his car is a plaything. It is unbelievable how immature he becomes when he gets behind the wheel.

For example, he'll pick out a car on the road, and try to "race" with it. Or he'll drive with no hands on the wheel, and steer with his knees. Or if he sees a pedestrian slowly crossing the street he'll speed up and aim his car right at him, to scare him. He also tries to frighten other drivers by seeing how close he can come to them without actually hitting them. Believe me, we have had some pretty close calls.

He does these things with our four impressionable youngsters in the car, and they seem to enjoy it. If I say one word to him, he flies into a rage, so I don't dare to open my mouth. What should I do?

family, not to mention his own and strangers', you have a bigger problem than you think. Call your local police department and report the boob. Give them his license number, and the description of his car and ask them to look out for him on the pretense that they've received "anonymous" complaints. Of course they can't touch him until they catch him breaking the law, but if he drives as you say he does, they'll soon nab him.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a very nice girl (I thought) for about 6 months. About a week ago I asked her to marry me. She said she couldn't give me a definite answer until I talked to her father. Well, I made arrangements to talk to her father and this is what happened. He took me into "another" room and closed the door. He asked me how much money I made, how much I had saved, how much insurance I had, and what I owned. I told him. The whole thing didn't take 5 minutes. Then he told me I was not meant for his daughter, and he showed me the door. On my way out, I passed by my "nice" girl, and she didn't say a word. She just gave me a blank look. I have thought this over and I am wondering now if maybe I wasn't lucky to have it happen this way. Signed,

DEAR STILL: No doubt about it. Everyone was lucky.

DEAR ABBY: In regards to the mother who came home early one Sunday afternoon and caught her teen-age son and the young Scandinavian maid "flagrant delicto":

to throw away his queen of clubs. It was a happy decision for his side. If he had hung on it, South would have entered his hand with a spade or diamond, led the nine of clubs and ducked it to the queen after West played the 10. East would have been in the lead and West's heart suit would have died on the vine. As it was, West was able to gain the lead and cash two hearts.

At the other table, South rose with dummy's ace of clubs at trick three. Again East was equal to the occasion. He dropped his queen of clubs under the ace. This made both the king and 10 of clubs entries to the West and this declarer bit the dust also.

This happened to be an expert competition and the post-game discussion concerned itself with which line of play had made it harder for East to find the right defense. It was a sort of silly discussion, in that East player had done more than play correctly.

We are rather inclined to compliment both Easts. It takes a lot of bridge savvy to make these fancy plays at the table, but each one came through. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Champions," NBC's British import to replace its "laugh-in" for the summer, had the shape of an old model in its American premiere Monday night. The program is a cross between a superman and "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." style of show.

In "The Champions," three attractive young persons, two men and a girl, are dedicated to Fighting Evil.

Quite a Gimmick
They work for some international crime-fighting organization. The gimmick is that all three are possessed of strange powers that permit them to see details at great distances, hear through closed doors, immobilize enemies by staring at them and even transmit signals among themselves by mental telepathy.

NBC chose not to tell us how they got these supernatural powers. At any rate, the story was routine with evil dope pushers, sinister masterminds and the usual fights.

And fights currently are not popular with the television networks. Neither is any kind of action in that area.

All television, particularly the major networks, is worried about talk relating violence to broadcasting and motion pictures. TV executives expect that their entertainment programs will be scrutinized for fist fights, gun play and the like.

CBS President Frank Stanton in a statement Monday said that his network plans immediate conferences with producers with the aim to "de-emphasize violence" in programs being made for next season.

Moving Too Fast

A programming executive who requested anonymity said that he knows that all networks are moving fast to tone down the violence in action-adventure shows.

"It's too late now to do much about the reruns," he said, "but editing where possible. And the length of some fights may be trimmed down."

It is probable, too, that episodes now scheduled for rerun in a series will be pulled out and milder episodes substituted.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

London's Downing Street, known for No. 10, the prime minister's home, was named after the man who originally constructed it. The World Almanac notes that Sir George Downing (1623-84), an English soldier and politician, built the street on a grant from King Charles II. Interestingly enough, Downing was educated at Harvard College, becoming its second graduate.

BLUE-RIBBON PANEL — President Johnson Monday convened a new blue-ribbon commission — set up in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy — and charged members to undertake a "penetrating search" for the causes and prevention of violence. Shown at first meeting in the White House, LTR: Attorney General Ramsey Clark; Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.; Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.; Eric Hoffer; Amb. Patricia Harris; Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman; President Johnson; Archbishop Terence J. Cooke and Judge A. Leon Higginbotham. Violence Commission Launches Its Study idential commission has formally embarked on a study of violence in America and President Johnson wants the panel to consider whether campaigning candidates should be limited in their physical contact with voters.

Johnson met with the 10-member group at the White House for the first time Monday, signed the executive order creating it for one year and said he was asking Congress to give it subpoena powers.

He also gave it what he called a simple and direct charge in which he expressed the hope it would find "understanding and insight into the kinds of violent aberrations which have struck down public figures and private citizens alike."

Besides this, Johnson told the commission he hoped it would uncover the causes of disrespect for law and order, violent disruptions by groups and individuals and offer ways to control or prevent such outbreaks.

Among the many facets of violence touched upon, was the safety of campaigning.

Card Burners' Plea Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected Monday appeals by three New Yorkers convicted of burning their draft cards and sentenced to six months in prison.

In turning down Thomas C. Cornell, Marc Paul Edelman and Roy Lisker, the court made no comment. However, on May 27 it had upheld the 1965 federal law that made it a crime to destroy a draft card.

In a separate action, the court refused to reconsider an appeal by David J. Miller, the first person indicted under the 1965 law. He was first turned down by the court in February 1967. Miller lives in this area.

Cornell, Edelman and Lisker burned their Selective Service registration certificates, and Cornell his notice of classification also, at a rally in Union Square in New York City in November 1965. The rally was sponsored by the Committee for Non-violent action.

Edelman and Lisker had been classified 4F and Cornell was 1-D, the classification for conscientious objectors.

Miller, a Roman Catholic lay social worker, burned his draft card at an antiwar rally near the Army induction center on Whitehall Street in Manhattan in October 1965. He was tried and convicted in U.S. District Court in New York City and got a three-year suspended sentence.

In April 1967 he was sentenced anew to 2½ years in prison because he had refused to get a new draft card.

Sirhan Will Choose A Lawyer Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will choose a lawyer soon, says the American Civil Liberties Union.

The announcement came as investigators continued to probe the murder and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, remained under tight security guard at Los Angeles County jail. An ACLU lawyer talked with Sirhan.

Brown Charge Dropped

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Authorities have dropped an assault case against former pro football star Jimmy Brown in connection with a high-fashion model found injured beneath his second-floor balcony. But he still may face a charge of battery against a police officer.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Phillips Mueller said his office would not issue a complaint because of insufficient evidence. After his arrest Brown had been booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

"There was not sufficient evidence to convict," Mueller said Monday. "This is aside from the fact that the woman would not sign the complaint." He added, however, that a complaint could be issued if "some evidence turns up in the future."

The German-born model, Eva Marie Bohn-Chin, 22, hospitalized in fair condition, wasn't available for comment.

Mueller said his office will file a complaint charging Brown with battery against a police officer, a felony.

Deputies discovered Miss Bohn-Chin semiconscious on the concrete patio about 20 feet below Brown's balcony.

Brown was freed Monday on $12,500 bond.

Doctors said Miss Bohn-Chin had a dislocated shoulder and bruises on her head, mouth and cheeks.

Deputy John Texeria, 163 pounds, said the 228-pound Brown knocked him seven feet with a swing of his left arm when the officer attempted to enter the apartment.

Officers would not comment on the progress of their investigation to determine what happened in the apartment.

They did report finding blood on the bed, the rug, the walls and a towel in the apartment.

Brown was quoted in the sheriff's report as saying: "You big white cops and your God damn system. Everything is against the Negroes. In order to get in, you are going to have to shoot me first."

Miss Bohn-Chin is the daughter of a Jamaican diplomat and a German woman. She is described by her agents as looking "like a Negro with an oriental strain."

Brown was acquitted in Cleveland in 1965 of a charge of assault and battery filed by Brenda Ayres, 18. He has a wife and three children in Cleveland.

Leary Granted Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Saturday granted a hearing to Dr. Timothy F. Leary, an exponent of LSD and other drug experimentation, on his federal conviction of possessing marijuana.

He claimed that laws subjecting drug importers to registration and taxation are self-incriminating.

The court recently barred prosecutions under federal gambling and gun registration laws if the registrants pleaded self-incrimination.

The court granted Leary, who operated the Castalia Foundation in Millbrook, N. Y., a hearing to decide whether the registration and tax provisions "violate his privilege against self-incrimination protected by the Fifth Amendment."

It cited the three recently decided cases involving gambling and gun registration.

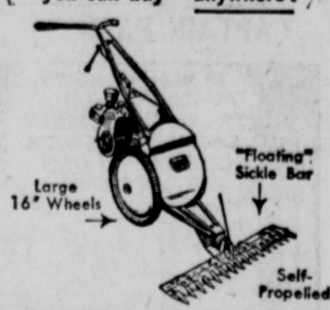

The court said it also would consider whether Leary was denied due process under the Fifth Amendment because of a ruling in his case that possession of marijuana is all that is needed to prove its illegal origin and nature.

Leary was sentenced to 30 years in jail and fined $40,000 in 1966 on federal marijuana charges in Laredo, Texas. The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the conviction Sept. 29, 1967.

The onetime Harvard lecturer was convicted of transporting illegally imported marijuana

BLUE-RIBBON PANEL — President Johnson Monday convened a new blue-ribbon commission — set up in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy — and charged members to undertake a "penetrating search" for the causes and prevention of violence. Shown at first meeting in the White House, LTR: Attorney General Ramsey Clark; Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.; Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.; Eric Hoffer; Amb. Patricia Harris; Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman; President Johnson; Archbishop Terence J. Cooke and Judge A. Leon Higginbotham. Violence Commission Launches Its Study Identical commission has formally embarked on a study of violence in America and President Johnson wants the panel to consider whether campaigning candidates should be limited in their physical contact with voters.

Johnson met with the 10-member group at the White House for the first time Monday, signed the executive order creating it for one year and said he was asking Congress to give it subpoena powers.

He also gave it what he called a simple and direct charge in which he expressed the hope it would find "understanding and insight into the kinds of violent aberrations which have struck down public figures and private citizens alike."

Besides this, Johnson told the commission he hoped it would uncover the causes of disrespect for law and order, violent disruptions by groups and individuals and offer ways to control or prevent such outbreaks.

Among the many facets of violence touched upon, was the safety of campaigning.

Card Burners' Plea Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected Monday appeals by three New Yorkers convicted of burning their draft cards and sentenced to six months in prison.

In turning down Thomas C. Cornell, Marc Paul Edelman and Roy Lisker, the court made no comment. However, on May 27 it had upheld the 1965 federal law that made it a crime to destroy a draft card.

In a separate action, the court refused to reconsider an appeal by David J. Miller, the first person indicted under the 1965 law. He was first turned down by the court in February 1967. Miller lives in this area.

Cornell, Edelman and Lisker burned their Selective Service registration certificates, and Cornell his notice of classification also, at a rally in Union Square in New York City in November 1965. The rally was sponsored by the Committee for Non-violent action.

Edelman and Lisker had been classified 4F and Cornell was 1-0, the classification for conscientious objectors.

Miller, a Roman Catholic lay social worker, burned his draft card at an antiwar rally near the Army induction center on Whitehall Street in Manhattan in October 1965. He was tried and convicted in U.S. District Court in New York City and got a three-year suspended sentence.

In April 1967 he was sentenced anew to 2½ years in prison because he had refused to get a new draft card.

Sirhan Will Choose A Lawyer Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will choose a lawyer soon, says the American Civil Liberties Union.

The announcement came as investigators continued to probe the murder and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, remained under tight security guard at Los Angeles County jail. An ACLU lawyer talked with Sirhan.

Brown Charge Dropped

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Authorities have dropped an assault case against former pro football star Jimmy Brown in connection with a high-fashion model found injured beneath his second-floor balcony. But he still may face a charge of battery against a police officer.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Phillips Mueller said his office would not issue a complaint because of insufficient evidence. After his arrest Brown had been booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

"There was not sufficient evidence to convict," Mueller said Monday. "This is aside from the fact that the woman would not sign the complaint." He added, however, that a complaint could be issued if "some evidence turns up in the future."

The German-born model, Eva Marie Bohn-Chin, 22, hospitalized in fair condition, wasn't available for comment.

Mueller said his office will file a complaint charging Brown with battery against a police officer, a felony.

Deputies discovered Miss Bohn-Chin semiconscious on the concrete patio about 20 feet below Brown's balcony.

Brown was freed Monday on $12,500 bond.

Doctors said Miss Bohn-Chin had a dislocated shoulder and bruises on her head, mouth and cheeks.

Deputy John Texeria, 165 pounds, said the 228-pound Brown knocked him seven feet with a swing of his left arm when the officer attempted to enter the apartment.

Officers would not comment on the progress of their investigation to determine what happened in the apartment.

They did report finding blood on the bed, the rug, the walls and a towel in the apartment.

Brown was quoted in the sheriff's report as saying: "You big white cops and your God damn system. Everything is against the Negroes. In order to get in, you are going to have to shoot me first."

Miss Bohn-Chin is the daughter of a Jamaican diplomat and a German woman. She is described by her agents as looking "like a Negro with an oriental strain."

Brown was acquitted in Cleveland in 1965 of a charge of assault and battery filed by Brenda Ayres, 18. He has a wife and three children in Cleveland.

Leary Granted Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court Saturday granted a hearing to Dr. Timothy F. Leary, an exponent of LSD and other drug experimentation, on his federal conviction of possessing marijuana.

He claimed that laws subjecting drug importers to registration and taxation are self-incriminating.

The court recently barred prosecutions under federal gambling and gun registration tax laws if the registrants pleaded self-incrimination.

The court granted Leary, who operated the Castalia Foundation in Millbrook, N. Y., a hearing to decide whether the registration and tax provisions "violate his privilege against self-incrimination protected by the Fifth Amendment."

It cited the three recently decided cases involving gambling and gun registration.

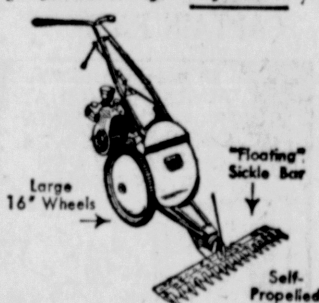

The court said it also would consider whether Leary was denied due process under the Fifth Amendment because of a ruling in his case that possession of marijuana is all that is needed to prove its illegal origin and nature.

Leary was sentenced to 30 years in jail and fined $40,000 in 1966 on federal marijuana charges in Laredo, Texas. The 3d U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the conviction Sept. 29, 1967.

The onetime Harvard lecturer was convicted of transporting illegally imported marijuana
